To whom it may concern,

Dear sir/madam,

I visited your wonderful part of Australia in 2015 and was part of a group that was shown around some fracking sites by an aboriginal man who passionately wanted to protect his land from fracking.

I came away with "Don't frack the Kimberly" bumper stickers and an anti fracking sign that I nailed to the front of my house in Cairns, and they're all still there.

Surely you won't allow such a magnificent part of our beautiful country to be ravaged by the evil Fracking?

Just for money?

I sincerely hope sanity prevails and this hideous proposal is rejected.

Sincerely,

Sharon Powell
