

Panel Investigating
Fracking. Yes/No.

Terry Baldwin

20/10/17

0821

Do you understand your decision will decide whether 24 million Australians live, or die painfully within the foreseeable future?

Now that is a big load to carry,
perhaps enclosed books may help you.

Be Bold

Living.

Speak The Facts

& i will speak for you.

Speak The Political Speak—

Goodbye Aus.

T.

HIGH UNEMPLOYMENT IS THE MOTHER OF REVOLUTION

Our coming Made in Australia economic collapse is of a magnitude beyond measurement that will sweep away all our obsolete political management systems.

18/09/2014

EAST TIMOR

THE LAST WALTZ

VANUATU

FOR SALE

FOR SALE

FOR SALE

FOR SALE

ANTARCTICA

STATE OF OUR NATION

SOON

Australian's live in the lucky country of great bounty buried sky high in wealth and bankrupt 10/10. Asleep in the sun.

Destitute of mental and physical effort to stand-up look around to see this avalanche of change rushing down upon us at avalanche speed.

Australian's suffer from the Boiled Frog syndrome the water although warming is still comfortable.

Fifty years of super gross progressive disastrous mismanagement by all our nine governments, especially Canberra with the last six years vertical down economically. Progressively destroying all our wealth creation capacity at every level.

With sweet lies and invented soft words that we are the greatest, the best and the economy is fine. The art of illusion and delusion of mind control to prove South is North, West is East and Down is up. Pumped up on total bulls wool hocus pocus and we love it, that great Australian laid back lifestyle.

And its not fixable, our employees those nine gov locked in gridlock, still preaching obsolete systems and ideologies from centuries long gone. Today we live in a new push button world moving change at warp speed and still we sleep in the sun.

Look around Aussie the supermarkets and elsewhere almost all our needs are made overseas, the doors of farming and industry at every level are closing.

We are the second highest wage structure in the western world with rigid crazy union controlled workplace rules and lackadaisical workplace performance attitude. Competing against nations paid 1, 2 or $3 per hour or that much per day. We must immediately change to survive, work 24/7 harder, much more cheaper to turn our bountiful assets into exportable competitive needed products called wealth creation.

We have a sell, sell everything mentality. We are only 3 days away from starvation not energy sustainable with only three weeks supply of imported energy. Cut off supply then within 3 days we will forcibly strip all supermarkets and wholesale supplies result anarchy and cannibalism.

Our employee PM says climate change is crap leaving a huge fatal gap in all his decision making.

I want everyone to go outside, sit under a big shady tree, the ground is probably bare shading out all opposition growth. For its own life support needs of water and food.

Look around listen, everything and that's everything on this planet lives by that same ruthless rule of nature, a rule above the laws of man.

The strong eat and the weak are eaten.

This is the real world Australian's now live in. Adapt or die - Charles Darwin.

China a fantastic culture and people honed through 5,000 years of hardship into a one people nation 94% Han. A strong feet on ground family based system, anyone that does not fit gets the chop, today Tibetans, Muslim, Uighurs, Phalun Gong refugee boat to Darwin.

The worlds best in the subtle arts of business and war and business is eternal ruthless war 24/7. Sun Tzu wrote the book 'The Art of War' 2500 years ago said, there are many ways to win a war without war. One being by deceit and migration.

Long ago this Emperor no matter what orders he gave his general kept losing against central Asian invaders. In desperation asked for new ideas, this professional soldier said, I can do it. Show me said the Emperor.

Bring out your concubines half there and half there, which are your two favourites Emperor, those two, right they are now your Generals. You two have one hour to train your soldiers to obey orders, go left go right go forward stop instantly.

Time came they gave the orders total chaos. Come here said the soldier, Emperor your Generals failed to carry out their orders I must execute them. You cant do that said the man and it was done.

Now soldiers go left, right, forward, stop and it was perfect. Emperor these soldiers will now win your war, great said the man you are my general I will give you my orders.

Emperor I run the war I don't listen to your orders, thinking for a while he said, go win the war and it was done.

Since 1946 the west has lost every war, the cold war bankrupted US, since 1960's have lost the business financial war is why Australia is bankrupt and defenceless. Due to our unprofessional political managers running our nation on ideology not business common sense.

The well documented 17th century mini ice age wiped out 30% of mankind and half China, has made China fixated on being food sustainable. Probably the only tribe in the world that really believes in C/C.

The criteria to survive C/C is lots of land to ensure somewhere a food crop might grow to keep some of your tribe alive. China has annexed the sea and land under the sea of Japan, Vietnam, Malaysia and the Philippines. Has annexed Antarctica as 'their polar rights' renaming it with 350 Chinese names building their 5th base.

Through aid and influence is big time in East Timor plus Vanuatu and Pacific Islands. Has bases in Burma, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, Seychelles, Maldives and 25 years in Africa. Soon when time and conditions are right the Indian Ocean will be China Sea two, can cut off Australia's imports which is almost everything.

You can buy no land in Indonesia, Philippines, S/E Asia, China, Japan most Arab nations and others.

Soon when China owns sufficient Australian real estate and businesses will say. We cannot afford to employ high cost low productive Australians, we must bring our own labour to be viable.

This is the day Australians will wake up. That our non-professional managers have sold the sovereign control of our nation as there is nothing else left to sell.

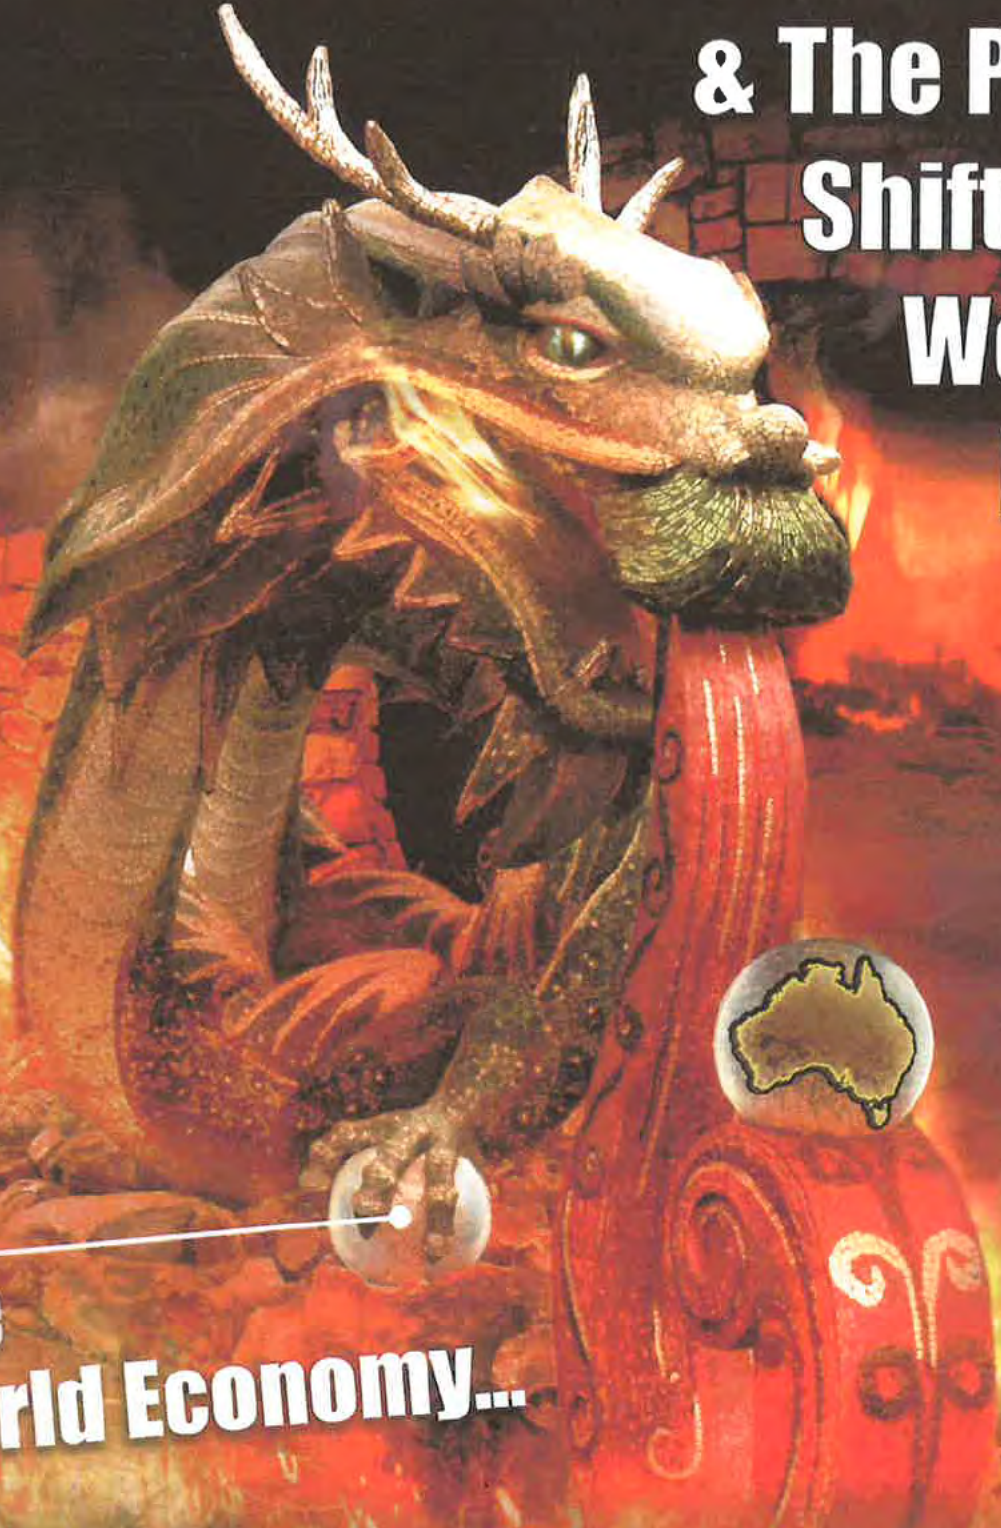

This is the day Australia will explode and implode.

ISBN 978 0 646 92644 5

Wake up Australia your sleep in the sun is over.

Can Australia Survive CLIMATE CHANGE

& The Power Shift from West to East?

The World Economy...

On Current Performance: NO

TERRY BALDWIN

Can Australia Survive CLIMATE CHANGE

& The Power Shift from West to East?

WAKE UP AUSTRALIA

Your Sleep in the Sun is Over!

The New World Power Centre of four to five billion dynamic people on the move; Desperate for space, land, water and the basic necessities of life for their survival.

What happened to them and their lands, along the way, is still happening and what will happen to them both in the future, depends on if we get it right or if we get it wrong!

ISBN 0-646-40051-7

9 780646 400518

ISBN 978-0-646-97552-8

9 780646 975528 >

THE NEW NORTHERN TERRITORY

'What's the name of your horse?'
'Mercedes. Ten speed automatic,
3 year warranty.
3 seconds from whoa to full go!'
'How much?'
'200K - 25% off for cash.'
'Done!, Any Spares?'
'No spares, some brumbies out back we can run and break in.'
'Great! I will be your agent.'
'Done!'

Every day the lives of 24 million
Australians balance on a knife edge of portable energy cut-off. No energy
- not physically survivable.

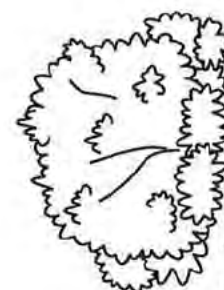

FRACK

NNT

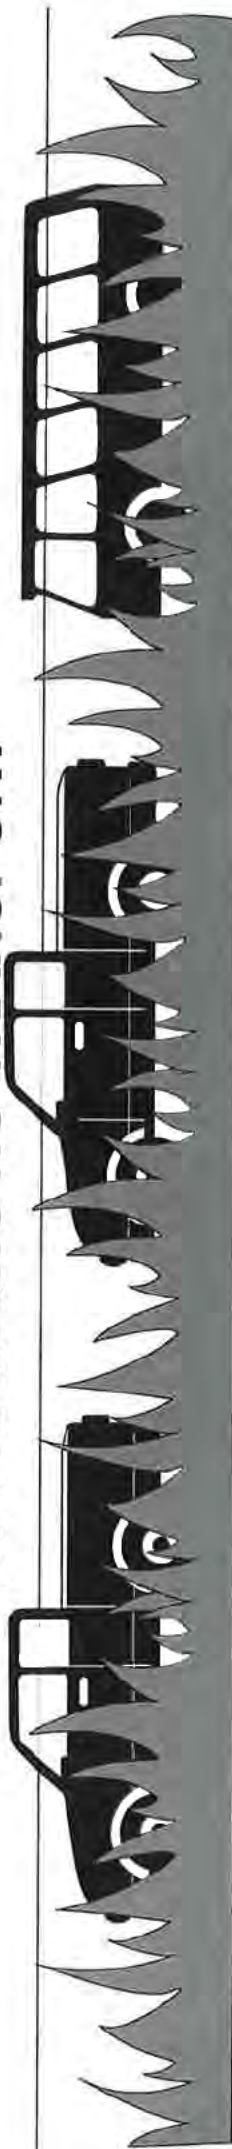

NOW

Downstream all by products turn every Aus engine to gas or

DIE PAINFULLY

NO FRACKING NO TRANSPORT

Australia is the only developed western world Nation with no huge emergency Government fuel tank
farms storage.
Is this colossal mismanagement or deliberate?

Defence 'to rely on' fuel imports

EXCLUSIVE

AUSTRALIA'S dependence on overseas oil and fuel has become so critical that the navy's helicopters would be forced to rely on imported fuel in a conflict.

An NRMA-commissioned report on the nation's liquid fuel security, released today, says that Australia's liquid fuel stocks have slumped by 16 per cent in less than a year and that the country is now hurtling towards 100 per cent dependence on imported liquid fuel and oil for transport.

It warns this has worrying implications for the defence force and for essential services in a time of crisis or conflict, arguing that the country would largely grind to a halt within three weeks if supplies were cut.

But Defence has disputed the report's findings, insisting that it has sufficient fuel for its helicopters in a crisis.

"The Department of Defence has arrangements to ensure adequate and secure supplies of fuel for its ship-based helicopters," a spokesman said.

Defence may have to 'rely on' imported fuels

Continued from Page 1

approval of foreign refineries.

The report says that the government's approach to fuel security has been to let the free market work and to ensure easy delivery of fuel, rather than to consider the consequences of disruptions to fuel supply, however unlikely this may seem.

It expresses alarm about the decline in Australian refinery capacity, which has fallen by 28 per cent in only two years.

"Over the last 15 years as our oil production has declined and imports have grown, there has been a rapid decline in Australia's capability to produce its own transport fuels."

It says that with 107 live ships

The report says that the current Air Vice-Marshal John Blackburn says there is currently "no public government policy on maintaining a minimum level of oil refining capacity in Australia".

"Since 2000 our dependence on imported liquid fuel and oil for transport has grown from around 60 per cent to 90 per cent of our transport fuel demand (and) there is no plan to stop our dependency growing to 100 per cent."

Entitled Australia's Liquid Fuel Security, the report is the second part of an inaugural study released last year and paints a bleak picture of a country which it says does not have a viable level of fuel security or a government plan to improve the situation at a time when local refineries are closing.

"We should expect a clear assurance from our government that we have sufficient Australian-controlled liquid fuel sources to support our Defence force and essential services if overseas supply is interrupted," the report says.

For example, it says the closure of the Shell refinery in Geelong, which is now for sale, would result in a steep reduction in specialist aviation fuels for civil airlines and for the defence force.

"The Department of Defence has also been advised that the F44 fuel necessary for all ship-based helicopters is unlikely to be refined in Australia from mid-2014."

"As a result, the Australian Defence Forces may not be able to operate helicopters from naval ships, including our new amphibious ships, without the fuel."

Continued on Page 4

FRACK
ON-SHORE
GAS
TODAY
or die
or die
or die
painfully.
During severe starvation cannibalism becomes the norm.

NOW TODAY

TOGETHER

MAKING OUR NEW NORTHERN TERRITORY HAPPEN

The only reason I write this book is our Australian Nation is totally dysfunctional.

Lawless, educationally, socially, economically and physically bankrupt at every level due to lack of common sense leadership over the last 50 years.

There is no real money in Australia today, there will never be any real money here ever again. Our high wage low productivity crazy workplace rules have priced ourselves out of most wealth creation International and Local National markets.

We are living on borrowed money in a deliberately created false dream world Australian bubble, where everything is upside down, painted in beautiful myths and deceitful lies portrayed as facts. Where south is north west is east and down is up. All soon to come crashing down when our collision with the real world hits us.

Add this fact that China has flooded the world with cheap products and so now rules the world both economically and physically.

Success in the human world at every level comes down to one word. Leadership. Every tribe sits in a bus, its who has the steering wheel and what crazy ideology drives the driver.

Bus Australia has gone over the edge of a huge abyss and the crash will be spectacular. The death of a Nation that once had it all from 10,000 cuts by our own hand.

To go down in permanent history as an example of the Lotus Eaters, who lived in a drugged indolent state deferring the tasks of life in favour of self indulgent pleasure. Sybarites described in the odyssey.

Now ask yourself this question, 'was this caused by laziness or was this drug deliberately administered by leadership over the last 5, 6, and 7 decades'?

We have 6 state and 2 territory public companies plus federal makes 9 and the people are the shareholders of our biggest business in our nation. Government.

If a public company continues to operate when it is insolvent running on borrowed money and deceit that is illegal. A jail-able crime.

There remains only one practical common sense solution to save our Nation from damnation. Remove all 9 obsolete leadership and management teams and install one only single slim line administrative fix-it federal management. Equal number representation from the 8 defunct company states and territories. The rest to be run by non political councils.

Easily achieved by following Iceland's model, a country who's management spent up big time then totally collapsed bankrupt 2008.

Their people fed up with this defunct management gathered together in shifts had a pot and pan revolution loudly beating non stop on their kitchen ware as they walked around their parliament house until all resigned. Then installed a new management team. Locate new administrative team in Central Australia's real world.

Australia's Police and Defence personal both overworked underfunded, the result, cop the blame for our nations woes creating low morale with all probably agreeing to this exercise and solution.

In our New Northern Territory lets immediately implement and fast track the four following funded solution projects. And those four projects are:-

1. Sustainable Energy.
2. Water, Food & Industry.
3. World Environmental Education Centre.
4. Making Darwin a World Class Business Hub.

ALL SELF FUNDED

ONLY

TOGETHER

CAN WE

MAKE IT HAPPEN!

PROJECT ONE INSTANT NNT ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT - SUSTAINABLE ENERGY

That Federal Government and some states including NT refuse to frack for safe on-shore energy puts all Australian's at certain painful lingering death. Proves beyond a doubt our obsolete dysfunctional management team must be instantly swept away for our physical and economic survival.

At any given moment Australia has only 10-21 days supply of imported oil and is the only developed world nation with no huge government emergency tank farm storage supply. Hows that for dumb mismanagement, or deliberate?, and no one talks about this catastrophic situation, placing 24 million Aus lives on a daily knife edge of survival.

In January 2016 Saudi Arabia executed 30 people, one an Iran activist, instantly both these giant Arab oil producing nations were millimetres from war. One Sunni one Shia, both seriously engaged in a proxy war in Yemen and in this process destroying its land and people. It is almost inevitable during this Islamic world meltdown these two nations go to war.

Four million barrels of oil pass through the Suez Canal each day to Europe and probably about the same goes east to Asia and Pacific regions. The Indian Ocean is already South China Sea Two surrounded with their bases also ready to cut off supply. New base in Djibouti to control Suez Canal.

Now I want you and everyone to sit down quietly and seriously think about no oil supplies. No wheels turn, no combustion engine works that drives locomotion and industry. No crops planted or harvested, no food processed or transported. No diesel trains ships move or planes fly. Standstill!

Within three days we will forcibly strip all food and energy sources, total instant anarchy and gang warfare for survival needs - no quarter given.

At this stage our defence Police & Emergency Services will be faced with this momentous decision to control law and order. Do we shoot the people?, or like Russia do we shoot the Tzars in Canberra and all the little Tzars throughout our land to save ourselves from our Judas mismanagement team?

Throughout human history during severe starvation cannibalism becomes the norm. This is the real world we live in today, instant social collapse ripe for a walk-in takeover by our already present Trojan Horse.

Already Australia is short of electricity supply generation in some states with no fracking of on-shore gas, out in New South Wales, Victoria and Western Australia. With NT taking one year to study on-shore gas fracking already done in Aus and world just to put off the great decision of our on-shore energy supply and physical survival mode. Ridiculous. That's 50% of all States and Territories.

SOLUTION

NNT in order to physically survive must start fracking our huge onshore shale gas now. Downstream all by products and turn every combustible engine to gas. Now, today until a guaranteed on-shore alternative sustainable load bearing system is in place.

RESULT

Instant huge investment in NNT, jobs and high economic viability, a world leader with knock-on of money in the bank for everyone.

BUSINESS TOGETHER

PROJECT TWO INSTANT NNT PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT - WATER, FOOD & INDUSTRY

The most valuable commodity on earth today is water. Our world is already desperately short of water in many areas and will rapidly get worse with increasing erratic supply. Accept climate change is real, will grossly impact all planet plant, animal and human life so we cannot make this worse by conserving water for food, lives and future. In addition Australia's economic situation is so fragile and deep in debt the coming crash will be so great as to perhaps collapse our banking system.

The concrete evidence of rapid compounding climate change is clearly evident here with encroaching sea rise into our Top End wetlands. Add National Geographic, no summer sea ice in Arctic by 2040, rapidly melting frozen undersea methane escaping into atmosphere Russian report. Arctic tundra melt, more Methane.

This phenomenon is an exact repeat of an almost instant climate change 56 million years ago with enormous extinction of species, no ice and trees in Antarctica. Toss in the increasing melt rate of the third pole that waters 3 to 4 billion people plus Greenland's and Antarctica rapid melt is the real water world we live in today.

STRATEGY

The days of kings in grass castles is long gone and I have been one in a small way. We all have food in the fridge or dry goods cupboard. All stock properties must produce and conserve stock food in some form plus improve and spread more watering points. All households and high rise must have a rainwater tank. By 2050 half the world will be short of water.

All major and underground aquifers and viable dam sites plus surrounding irrigable intensive farming lands progressively resumed and owners compensated.

The best investment you can ever make today is in water, you can see your asset and drink it. Invest some of your 2 trillion dollars super fund into major and average dams, on-sell to an approved distributor. Make very, very sure your contractors and unions do not rip you off.

The original landowner(s) as part of the compensation has the right of first pick of 5 only in total of the development blocks so formed, housing, business, retail, light and heavy industry or farming.

We invite Australians and new people to NNT from around the world to be part of these new towns and villages who like Kununurra live in urban residence and commute to farm or work.

Each person or entire family must bring their own furnished container or containers, some with equipment all up to code, suitably painted, cleaned of seed and fogged for bugs.

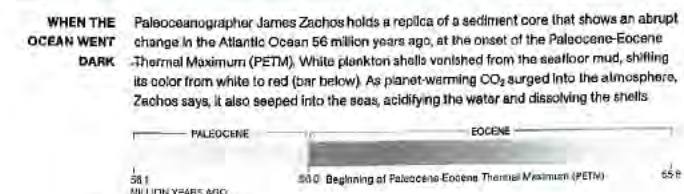

Upon arrival to your new land and block put down a concrete pad to supplied plans, drop your containers to pre-organised plan, bolt them down, insulated roof overall, perhaps fly wire and you are home in business or jobs.

All overseas people must meet normal immigration rules with one addition. Only people eligible are those where Australians can buy their land, safely build their houses, businesses, schools, churches, be accepted as equal citizens and workers, just like we do with immigrants to Australia.

New settlers pay a reasonable land rent plus services. Stay 10 years then the land is yours free. Welcome to the NNT.

If they on-sell their land within 15 years then a fixed percentage is deducted from the sales price to cover the real cost of the land. Every new person must be thoroughly vetted as the vultures in our midst will use lots of dummies to grab lots of land. Where later if some are discovered the whole asset of land and all upon it is seized and sold to a new settler with no compensation to the vulture.

MAKE IT HAPPEN!

Highest Priority 04/2001

The First Casualty of the Horsemen

Combined, these six Horsemen guarantee the collapse of mankind's food supply.

Listen only to the people of the land. Those who make their living by their own labour directly from the harvest of their produce from their land.

Go only to the farmers of the world and ask them 'What happens to you when the weather increasingly gets worse?' 'We will go broke. Bankrupt!' will be the reply.

'What happens if occasionally you are lucky enough to grow ample for you, your family and some to sell or barter?' 'Gangs and hungry people will take it.' will be the reply. Hungry, frightened people recognise no laws or borders, a natural human survival response.

What is each day the number one survival need for people? Food. The law of the land for all living things is 'The strong eat and the weak are eaten'. That is the law of nature.

Who will grow the food when farmers can no longer be economically viable due to bad weather?

To protect us we have surrounded ourselves with an envelope of laws. The more people the more laws. That envelope has now been smashed by our own hand, creating global warming and climate change. The Six Horsemen will now ride into our homes, bringing with them the reality that 'only the strong survive'.

There is one other frightening aspect taking place right now. The growing monopoly of control of food, its inputs, distribution and sale. Supermarket chains are becoming larger and fewer. The biggest now handles in a year more food than Australia produces in a year.

You will see a marriage of supermarkets together with inputs such as processors, fertilisers, pesticides, organically modified plants and animals, plus the banks who will all screw down the price to contract farmers, this being their only outlet available. A world monopoly of enormous power and money. Food prices will rise.

Now you can see what our great entrepreneur Dick Smith is on about when encouraging Australians to support and buy our own food products and manufactured goods.

08/2017

Local Outback Supermarket price peanut paste

Local & Imported contents 500gm $5.60

Woolworths Homebrand

Made in China 500gm $2.40

China using cheap products and food as a weapon to destroy the west.

Same for all cheaper poorer quality imported food bankrupting Australian farmers.

PROJECT THREE

A WORLD ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION CENTRE DARWIN

- BETWEEN RAPID CREEK FOOT BRIDGE AND CDU

As a career land-man from day one, raised on a very primitive horse and cart farm where we produced, grew and preserved a years supply of all essential basic food stuff for animals and ourselves.

A family of six, two grandparents three disabled and a boy. Where you quickly learn the fundamentals of life, the powers of nature and the rhythms of the seasons that governs all life upon our Planet.

Especially do you learn the music within all those rhythms that you must dance to, year upon year upon year upon year to secure your safe sustenance from that land and its bountiful produce.

Ask any farmer the iron bound law of successful land management. 'Thou shalt not overstock and overgraze the farm or you will destroy it.'

And folks we have done that 10/10 over our planet farm with the most vicious ruthless predator ever to walk this earth, and still we multiply polluting our air land waters seas and aquifers through overuse.

RESULT KNOCK-ON EQUATION

We have changed the weather that rules our small planet farm that will compound at lightening speed driven by people. Accept this fact, do not waste any more time bumping gums doing sums, it's your life and the survival of your tribe is what's at stake here. Only 30% of our planet is land.

There have been five major extinctions in the past with small ones in between. Read Geoffrey Parker's book - Global Crisis, when the 17th century 100 year mini ice age killed off 30% of mankind, quoting writings of those that were there at that time. France is a model, average height 5 feet - 1175m. At end - wars - revolution.

Cannibalism became the norm

In every climate change extinction all plant and animal life that died or became extinct died from starvation. Change the weather, first impact is food at all levels, unless you have seen your bank account whether it has legs or a crop destroyed by drought, flood or fire you have zero understanding of the enormous powers of nature.

We are selling the Aus Farm to China at every level is how dumb or deliberate our leadership is.

It has long been my strong belief that mankind will refuse to handle climate change due to an eternal fight over the three P's (Power, Politics and Profit). Our world is stuck there, only China has evaluated this starvation correctly, is on a world take-over mission of all lands so that somewhere a food crop may survive to keep their tribe alive.

In my first climate change book written December 2000/ January 2001 I laid out two fundamentals for mankind's survival.

1. Close all borders against illegal migration instead of running away from your internal created disasters, stay there and fix it or die there.

2. To fix up the environment we must have:-
No wars, no cheating, no personal self interest above the interests of the harmony and balance of our Global village for centuries.

Unachievable without the harsh facts shoved up everyone's nose without getting your head knocked off. Take a look at our planet 17 years later, wars, anarchy huge migration de-stabilising whole nations - corruption on a grand scale, zero practical leadership outside of China. A non survivable world rabble.

BUSINESS TOGETHER

STRATEGY

The single demand factor to create fast change at the depth and speed required is to bring The People of the World together, to meet each other on a common level to discuss these challenges among themselves. To listen and learn of these world issues we face and implement the only simple solution now available. World wide land care units.

There is only one solution, build a world environmental education centre easily accessible and show the hard facts of today's and tomorrows climate change impact. You will not survive the Great Barrier Reef or world corals - our sea, 70% of our planet, its heart and lungs is dying from CO² acidity, overfishing and used as a world garbage dump. Has died in past climate changes.

Change will never come from the top down as all people resent imposed power, only from the bottom up forcing change world wide via local land care units, who will ruthlessly police these within this system administering harshest treatment at all levels for those around them who do nothing and so place all others at risk. An achievable fast fool proof low cost fix-it system world wide.

Marketed correctly conservative potential for 3 million visitors per year or 60,000 per week housed in a container city Bunnings to Rapid Creek with knock-on of city accommodation, plus some travel south. Transported to site 24/7 by aerial gondolas via Rapid Creek road entrance over mangroves which will drown this century.

Into a 65 metre tower donated by Canberra which will be sea level when all ice melts. High volume lifts to top tower deck and bottom where with powerful swivel fixed horizontal binoculars looking for a dry place to live. To walk the beach together, listen to the waves knowing that if we do nothing these sand hills and land we stand on will soon disappear under the sea from the direct actions of the men, women and children of today.

To also meet each other in the great hall and discuss these world issues in detail then return home with enough confidence and drive knowing how we can save our planet and ourselves. An iron strong relationship welded together as one People driving one goal above the enormous powers loose today destructing our world.

To look and learn from all leased stall sites in other halls about the latest fix-it gadgets ideas and projects displayed by all nations, individuals and businesses.

To return home with a handshake to new friends found world wide with determination to know between all people working together we can make it happen to save ourselves, our farms and our families.

All cultures involved

If each visitor pays $300 for food, accommodation and transport that is $900,000,000 per year into the NNT.

FUNDING

All Stakeholders Adelaide River to East Alligator plus approved knock-on impacted business such as Airport AFANT fishing and tour operators. Each have one non-saleable share, each share one million dollars, Federal put in for indigenous people repaid from project profit.

NTG and Federal each have one share putting their relevant department on board.

50, 100, 150 , millions of dollars, whatever it takes, essential indigenous and non indigenous numbers are level for an harmonious joint venture and pioneering many more potentially across NNT.

It is normal in most cultures to subvert or reject harsh uncomfortable laws imposed from above onto their people. Climate change solutions will never be accepted from the top down only from the bottom up and only then after you have proved their life and property is on the line of survival.

Today it's only the world upper leadership level that is bumping gums cutting deals never to reach a joint achievable solution.

A joint venture between Indigenous and non-Indigenous people together in equal numbers can educate the world. This project will be a role model for all future joint ventures across Australia between local Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians upon their vast Indigenous lands, creating harmony, wealth and jobs for both so desperately needed today.

MAKE IT HAPPEN!

Highest Priority 04/2001 Achievable

A World Environmental Education and Expo Centre incorporating a World Information Exchange and People Meeting Centre

The criteria for such a centre is critical yet very simple. This centre must be in a stable society readily accessible to the world and on neutral ground.

Must be on a piece of land right next to the sea and tidal mangroves which will be consumed and killed by sea rise this century.

This site and all back up facilities must have the capacity to easily cater for large volumes of visitors on a year round 24 hour day service.

In my estimate our world has about 20 years plus or minus ten years in which to educate and turn around the whole of mankind's values and practices. Fail, then within this time frame the wheels will fall off world social stability and we will all enter a prolonged phase of war over the control and ownership of land and that land's resources. Australia is already surrounded by such wars with endless others around the world already in progress. Such wars can only escalate as awareness of our Planet's sad plight becomes increasingly evident to mankind.

World population at Year 2000 was six billion people. One percent of this number is 60 million. Spreading this number over 20 years means you could have three million visitors per year or, in round figures, 60 000 per week. If each spent $200 that would be $600 000 000 $300 each spent $900 000 000 for Darwin.

Regardless of how poor a community is they will save up the cost needed to send a delegate to look at tomorrow and learn of the problems and the solutions.

This will be repeated every few years. Visitor numbers could peak at double the above figures. In addition this education facility will continually produce and update bulletins on new ideas and technologies via all forms of communication including the internet.

Essential to environmental success is the face-to-face meeting of world grass roots people who can in small groups and one - on- one come to terms with common problems and achievable fix it solutions giving each other the necessary confidence and incentive to go home and give it a go.

Where they can walk the beach together and listen to the waves, trying to get their minds around the monumental task we face. To watch the eight metre tides racing past through the mangroves, knowing this land they stand on will, like the mangroves, disappear this century; look at the marks painted on the buildings showing the estimated sea rise of 100 and 200 years.

To go up a 65 metre high tower with high volume lifts built and donated by the Australian Federal Government as their contribution. With an all round viewing platform and horizontally mounted telescopes to view the far, far way land that will remain above the sea if we do nothing and allow all the ice to melt.

It has been estimated that at the beginning of the Great Ice Age when there were few ice sheets in the world and when even the Antarctic was almost ice free the sea level was 65 m higher than it is now. Evidence of this is given in many places by the presence of raised beaches and terraces which were formerly at the level of the sea.

'The Antarctic continental ice sheet covers 13 500 million square kilometres ranging from 2700 to 4000 metres thick. Greenland also has an ice sheet.' [Laseron Charles, Ancient Australia. The story of its past geography and life (3rd ed. revised by Rudolf Oskar Brunschweiler PhD), Angus & Robertson.]

To look and listen and learn how to implement catchment management in their own home area, knowing this is a people power thing everyone world wide can easily implement. The people can work under international, national and local guidelines and anyone who fails to abide by those fundamental rules the local people will deal with, harshly if necessary. In addition catchment management empowers the local people to benefit from improved land management in their nearby seas.

Again, the people in one catchment will certainly keep a close watch upon the next catchment each side and see it's managed correctly. If not well managed the locals will deal with that also. Simple, low cost, self policing is the only way successful environmental solutions will be achieved world wide. From the bottom up, never from the top down.

Highest Priority 04/2001

SHOCK!!

Is the first step

SHOCK!!

of seeing tomorrow; Real; Live.

SHOCK!!

of seeing the Horror Gallery in the Education Centre.

A huge historical photo display of our world's environmental degradation and projected deterioration.

SHOCK!!

is the only way to achieve fast major turn around change.

'Beliefs change more slowly than reality.'

'Entrenched beliefs can never be changed by facts.'

We must shove reality up people's noses without getting our heads knocked off until they demand rapid change.

NOW! TODAY!

TOP: Proposed site for a World Environmental Education Centre, looking towards Rapid Creek and the mangroves

BELOW: Looking in the opposite direction towards the beach and sea from the top of the sand dune

Highest Priority 04/2001

*A model of what we must build world wide to save coastal wetlands, flora and fauna
We built these wetlands on our land in 1987, zero maintenance since. Fully stocked with fish, fowl and plants that naturally migrated there. About 12 metres above sea level.*

Highest Priority 04/2001

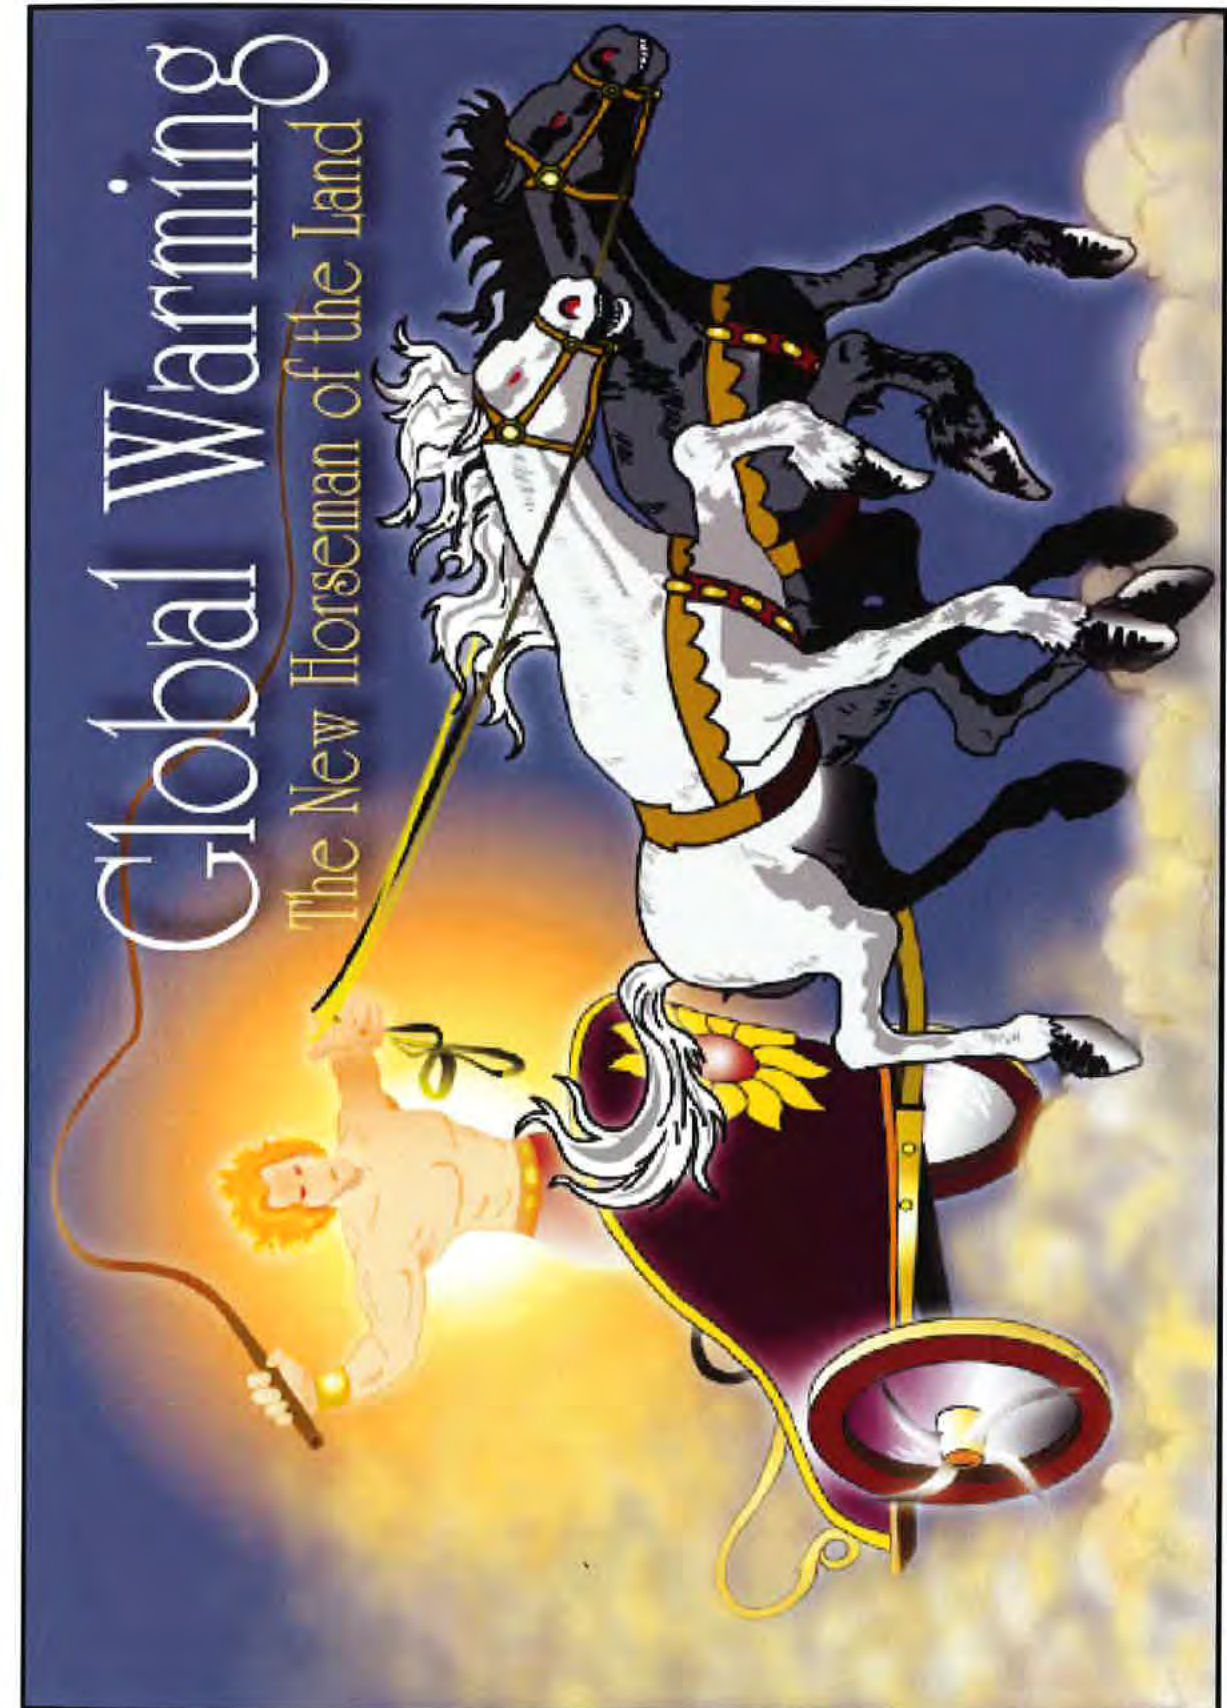

The People are The Plague Upon our Planet

The Five Horsemen of the Apocolypse we have always lived with - Now Galloping

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

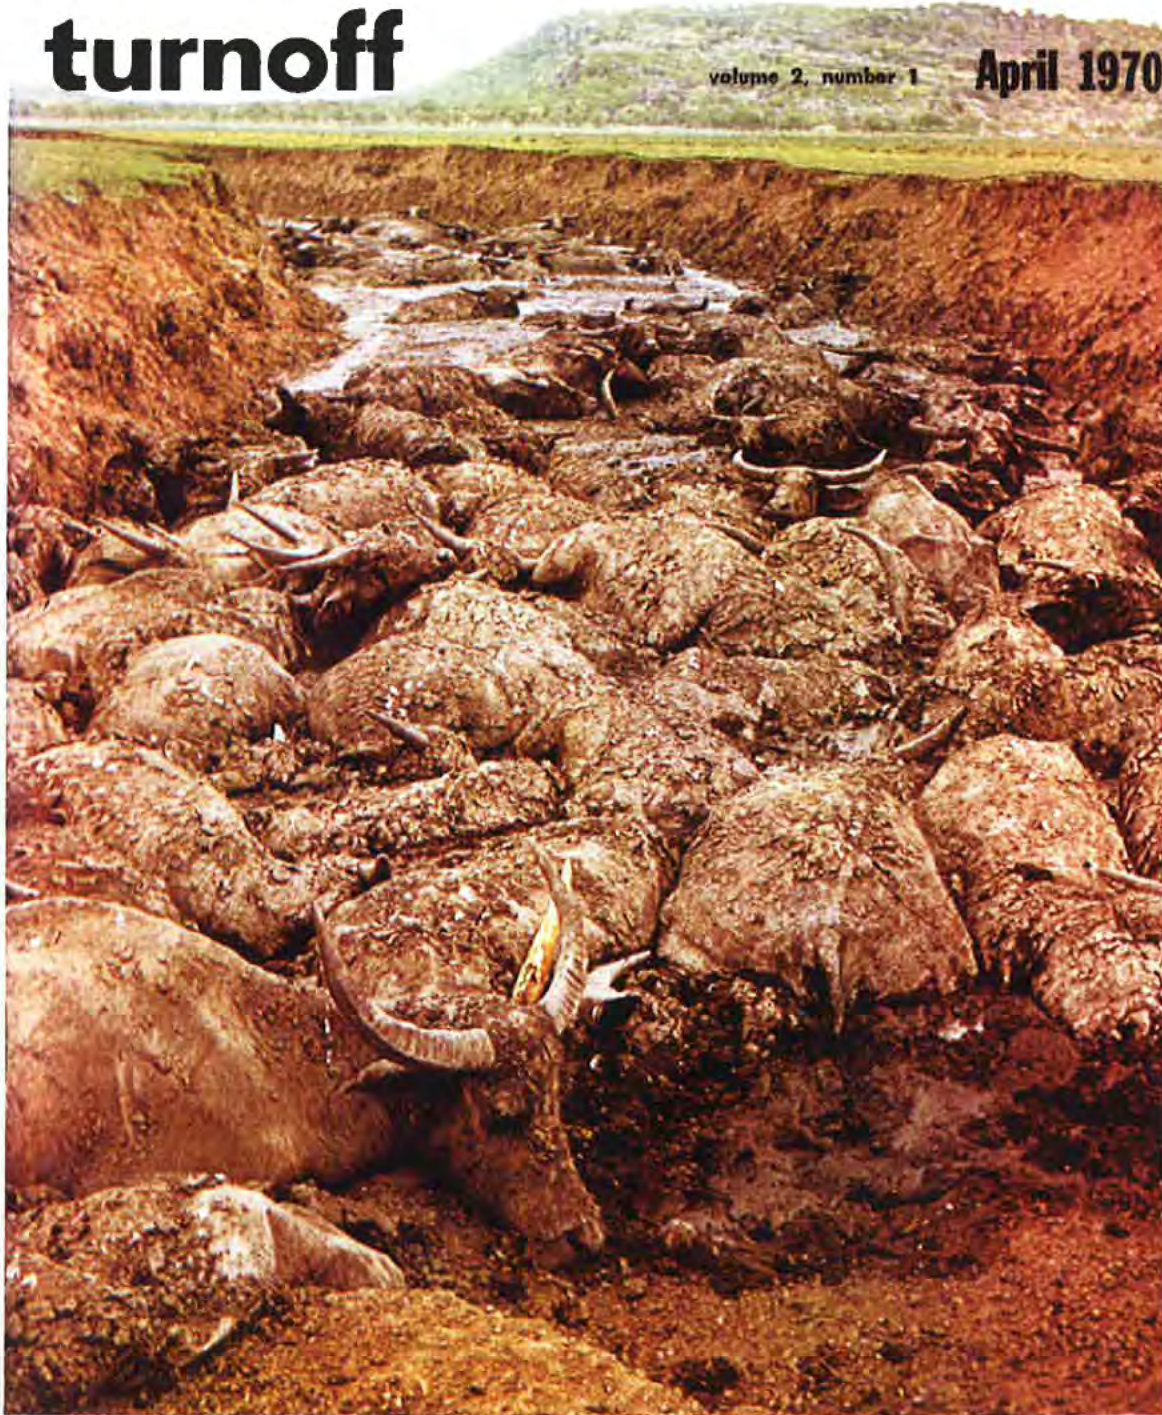

The New Sixth manmade Horseman of the Apocalypse

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

turnoff

volume 2, number 1 April 1970

*The rains came too late for the 1500 buffalo estimated to have died in this small creek bed just over the East Alligator River, inside Arnhem Land (1964 drought)
PHOTO: Charlie Cuff, as printed on the cover of Turnoff Volume 2, No. 1, April 1970*

The NT Department of Primary Industry estimated 15 000 died in the Mary River wetlands. We personally lost between 2500 and 3000 head, including some cattle. The crows and the feral pigs got fat and when those rains finally came the Mary River was white with dead fish, killed by the runoff from the rains which destabilised water purity and oxygen content.

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

An aerial view of cyclone-devastated Darwin ... 'it was mission impossible'
Courtesy Northern Territory News - Sunday Territorian 12 December 1999

Cyclone Tracy, a Category 4 cyclone devastated Darwin on Christmas Eve 1974. Sixty-one people were killed, 60 per cent of private housing destroyed, all essential services - electricity, water, sewerage - out of action. Evacuation of the majority of Darwin's population followed and many were unable to return for months. Estimated cost of damage was $1200 million dollars (cost today: around 3 billion). Our own home went with the wind.

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

The Horseman of Fire is a terrifying force, ever vigilant, always waiting for the opportunity to let loose his powers. Let's live with this force for a while to really understand it.

Way back, the old coal-fed trains sometimes threw sparks which in the dry summer often set the land on fire. As a boy I helped fight these fires using a wet bag tied to a stick. Try it one day. Not much fun.

In 1950 I came to Australia at a time when much of outback southern Queensland and NSW was severely flooded, drowning and killing large numbers of sheep through starvation. As a woolclasser I later went out and picked up this dead wool on many properties. With these earnings I bought a mob of sheep, droving them out to a station west of Moree where I'd recovered a lot of wool.

All these old folks' sheep had drowned, so to make a living they took in several mobs of sheep including mine plus around 1200 cattle, charging a reasonable price for the grazing. My job was to also look after this stock on land now covered deep in grass from the flood.

Suddenly, out of nowhere the Horseman of Fire rode this vast land without let up. Again and again. We had months on end of dry thunderstorms with only a few spots of rain. Bang, bang, bang, that Horseman went! It seemed each time that horse's hooves hit the ground there was lightning. I have seen seven local fires start in one pass of that Horse, some out on the open plain. Who knows how many were lit on that one night irrespective of who owns the land or what nation state it's in.

Thousands of sheep were burnt, wild pigs and some larger animals. Native wildlife was not exempt. Later we had to go out and shoot those animals burnt but still alive. We kept horses in the yard ready around the clock to muster stock away from advancing fire. Luckily I had a lot of experience riding horses at night. Horses have top night vision so you take your hands off the 'steering wheel', hang on and let them do the driving.

This night I was moving at a fast trot toward the flames when we were both suddenly thrown to the ground. I got up and checked over both of us for bleeding. Nothing. We had ridden over a fence, luckily with no barbed wire. My fault as the horse's night vision was affected by the fire.

A wide stock route passed by this property and many station owners together with their families were often forced to find grazing in this government-owned 'Long Paddock'. Sometimes families spent a year or two or more with their mobile bank account 'on the road' until grass grew back on their land and they could return.

There was a family camped with their cattle nearby on 'The Route' - illegally as the law states all stock must move so many kilometres per day to conserve grass. On this night, out of the darkness and smoke, dressed only in pyjama trousers and elastic sided boots, rode this guy on a big cream horse. He yelled out, 'Have you seen any cattle down this way son?'

Away he went into the night and I never saw him again as next day they had to move on, chasing the disappearing grass.

Later, I crossed on to the burnt ground through a patch of no fire front and found the owners, this same elderly couple who had driven out in their prewar ute onto the plain, holding each other and crying. For two years in a row the Horsemen had destroyed their entire stock assets, their capacity to earn a living and much of their land's infrastructure. The fires winked in the night all around us. The wooden fences and telephone poles and all the big old dead trees, standing timber rungbark prewar, all gone. I have seen guys lost at night on their own station out on these plains as all the known landmarks were burnt. Gone.

My sheep were fat and earlier the abattoir buyer had arrived and picked out those suitable for sale. With a mob of 1200 odd, a horse and packhorse I set off on the three day trek to the railhead using station yards along the way at night. On the third day this man came by and said there would be no trains until fire damage to the line was repaired.

Weeks later, the sheep and I, all much thinner now as they had had little grass, arrived at the rail and away they went. With fires from southern Queensland and down through the back of NSW many owners were forced to dump stock, much of it to abattoirs, flooding the market. Prices crashed and were now only a fraction of the original offer.

That's the name of the game when the Horsemen ride. Some win, some lose. The survivors and non survivors.

This real story is about what happens to the land and all that's on it when the Horsemen ride. Particularly to the people. Let me tell it to you exactly as it was.

By now we were a little better organised with many trucks, vehicles and water tanks. We back burned at night from roads, tracks, sheep pads and bore drains. We just kept going, bumping into homesteads who fed and watered us, usually sleeping from exhaustion on the burnt grass. Often we were nearly black.

This day our team of two vehicles was on the shoulder of the fire and as we ran out of water the next follow up team took over. We were three days without much sleep, staggering about and slurring our words like we were drunk.

Who knows where we were? We were sent ahead to the next homestead directly in line with the fire to fill our tanks and help protect the buildings.

We arrived and asked for water. The owner replied 'You cannot have any, we need it for ourselves'. There was a bit of mumbling among our team, no raised voices and I heard someone say 'He has a firebreak around the house and woolshed'. We left, got out of the way and had a sleep.

Being new to this land it is essential to keep a low profile and your mouth shut and concentrate on learning the local protocol. Later I asked one guy 'What was that all about?' Quietly he replied 'Son, that's a Kangaroo Court'. Now I did not see any kangaroos there although weeks earlier there were things jumping around in the flames some of which could have been kangaroos!

Being curious, I later asked one of our team what that Kangaroo Court was about. In simple words he explained 'He is a miserable bloke who is against everybody and everything, contributing nothing to the community. A negative bloke'.

For the last 38 years I have been on my patch of land in the top end of the Northern Territory near Kakadu. Some grasses here grow up to more than four metres tall and for six months or more we live with extreme fire danger.

Each year we duel with the Horseman of Fire, preparing firebreaks at great cost in dollars and land degradation. With the understanding today that indigenous Aborigines managed the land with fire people have gone mad with the matches.

The result, many uncontrollable late season wild fires. Once we lost the station homestead to fire caused by a kerosene operated deep freeze.

As The Horsemen increasingly ride across the lands and its people:

There will be lots of Kangaroo Courts

Getting rid of the rorts

Crossing out the noughts – the negative people.

Bet on it. That is human nature.

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

Highest Priority 04/2001

*Once upon a time,
not so long ago ...*

1900 AD
1.6 BILLION

2000 AD
6.1 BILLION

**?
!

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

Magpie Geese in Kakadu World Heritage wetlands, Northern Territory, Australia
PHOTO: Dr Peter Whitehead, Key Centre for Wildlife Research, NTU

These geese, together with their wetlands are moving into the sunset of their lives.

Goose Camp, Kakadu World Heritage National Park
PHOTO: Frank Woerle

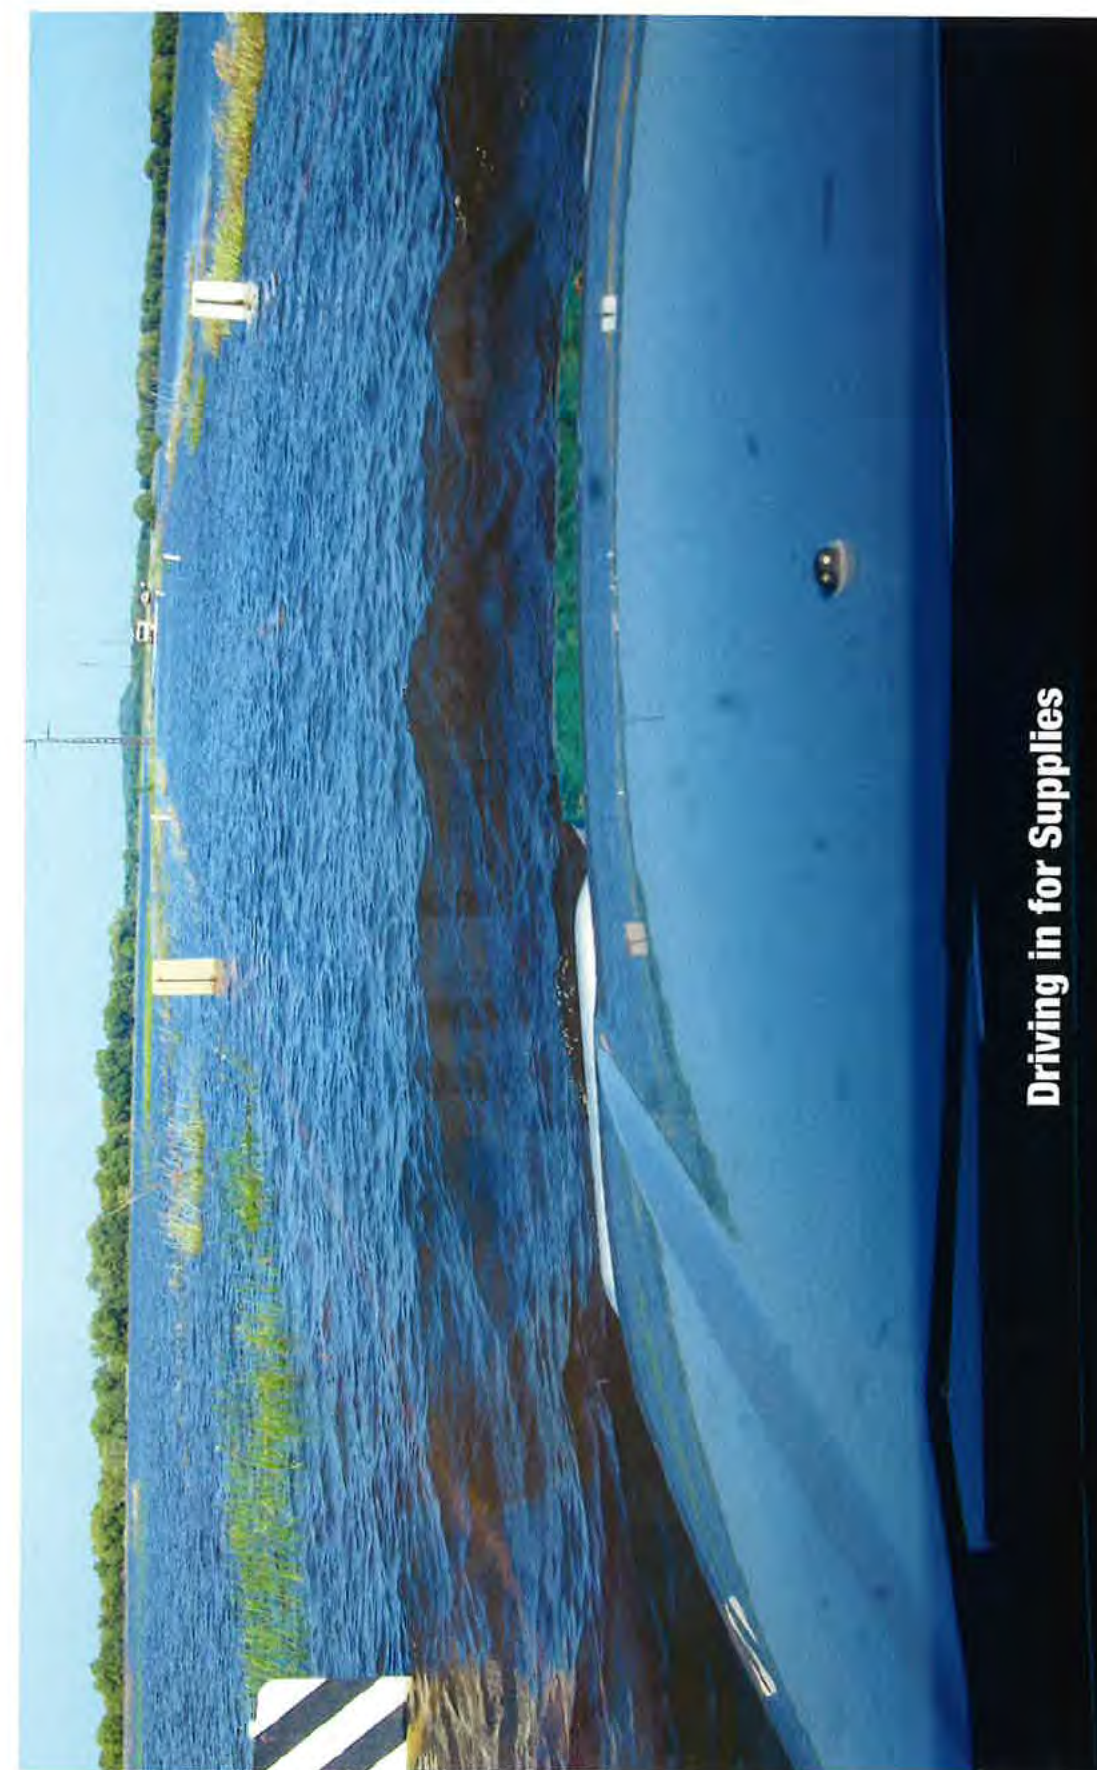

Adelaide River Bridge Arnhem Highway NT

Adelaide River Wet Season Run Off

Driving in for Supplies

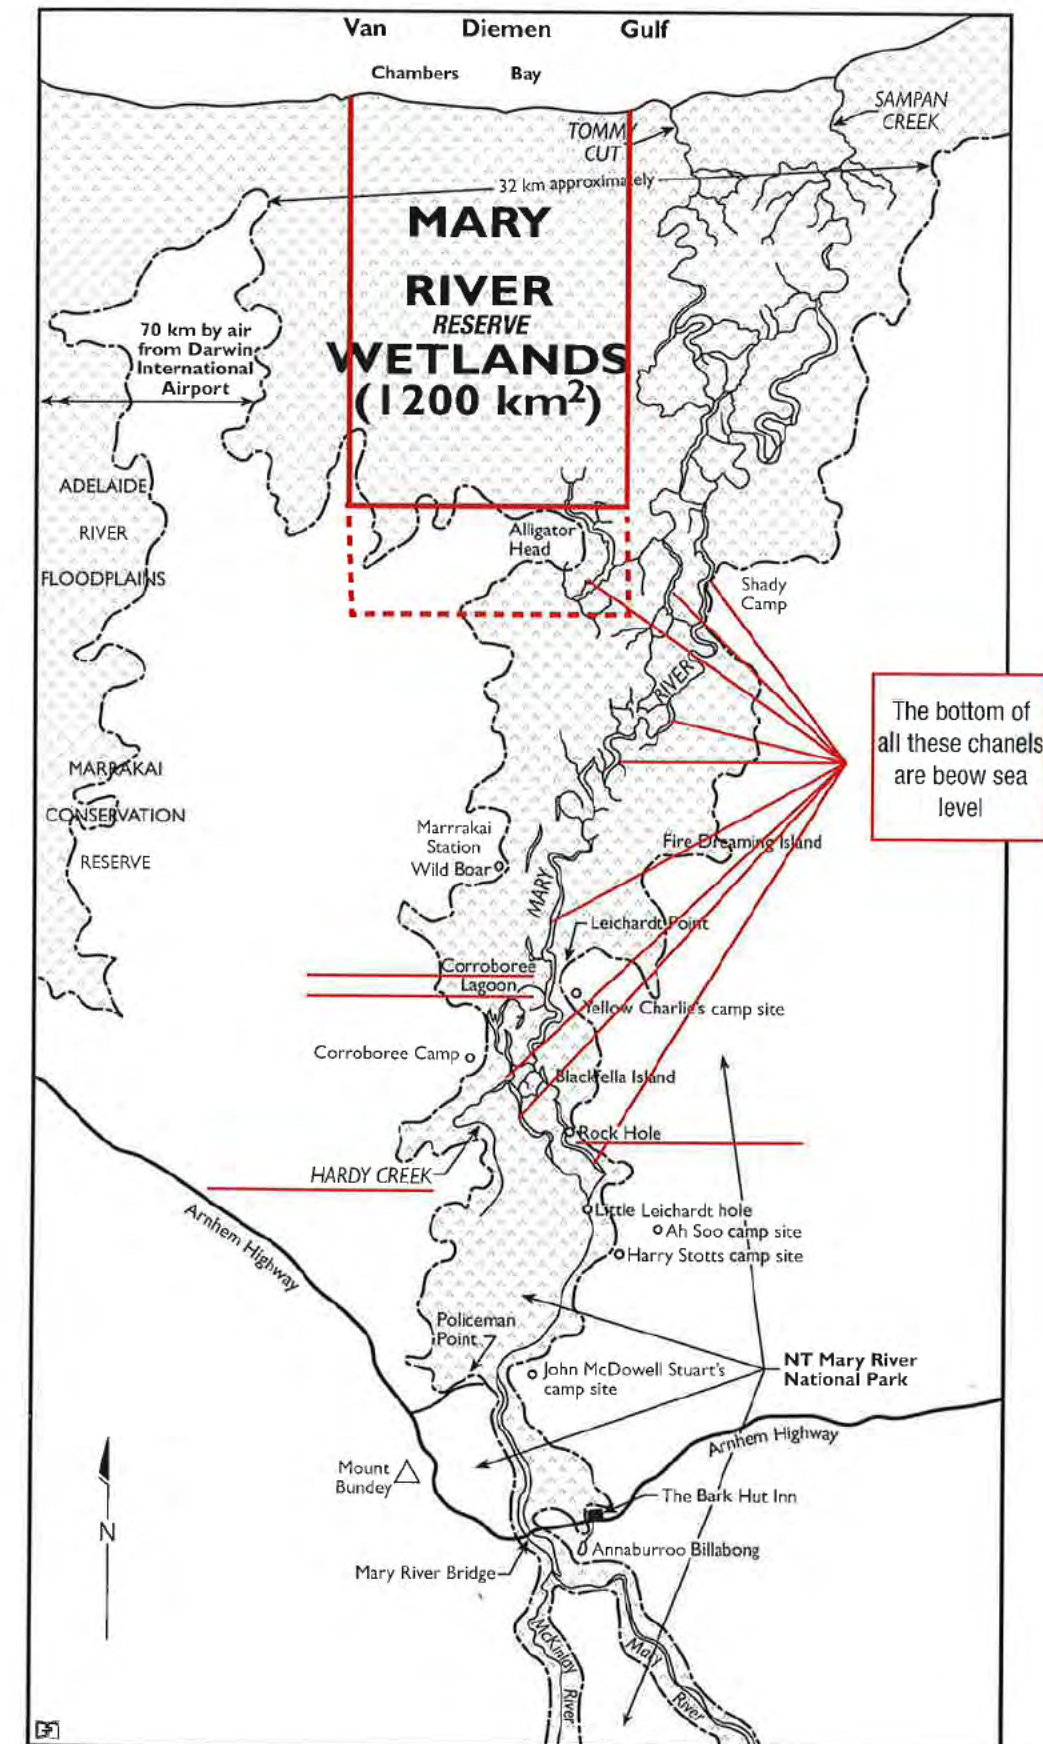

THERE IS NO LEADERSHIP

At this very moment 80% of all species upon our planet are migrating in a desperate attempt to survive global warming and probably the rest would if they could.
Only mankind in our ignorance and arrogance that we are above the laws of nature are standing still.

We are adrift in the violent seas of change with no one at the tiller. WHO man or woman will step up to lay an iron hand on the tiller of our good ship Australis and steer us into global warming survival mode?

Highest Priority 04/2001

Extract from 'Highest Priority' - 04/2001

15. PROJECT SURVIVAL

For around 25 years all NT governments have been building mud barrages in the Mary River wetlands of about 1200sq Km to stop sea invasion. Reaching a peak of almost a million dollars a year with little results.

For 25 years I have been knocking on doors of government, and those concerned telling them this is a total waste of time, energy and money. As a stakeholder there was no proof available to need a change of direction.

Until recently when the Federal Bureau of Meteorology issued their results of 135mm sea rise 1990—2010 Cape York to Perth. Using their BOM branch called sea shape for measurements, east coast appears less.

I immediately went into action mode marking king tide datum level of the Adelaide River in September and October 2011 Ran these levels with a licensed surveyor across the 3.5km flood plain east of Adelaide River Bridge Arnhem Highway.

Erected large signs April 2012 plus 12 smaller ones without levels. Repeated King Tide datum September and October 2012 ran levels with a different surveyor placed levels on small signs November 2012

It is now late January 2013 and as yet no one has asked what these signs are about, truly amazing as this entire flood plain is below sea level. These levels would also indicate that the flood plain west of South Alligator Bridge in Kakadu could be below or near to sea level.

This BOM sea level rise of 135mm means all rivers and lowlands Cape York to Perth will be inundated at an increasing rate. In addition all flora and fauna on and around Australia must adapt or die. Current world migration of animals and fish north and south to cooler conditions is now about 80% probably the rest would if they could Only mankind in our ignorance and arrogance that we are above the laws of nature are standing still.

McKinlay River is a branch of the Mary River and has a large dam site; Adelaide River has 2 large dam sites. This creates potential for intensive farming and settlement within these two catchments, this model can be transported across the north of Australia. Most of our deserts will grow anything with water.

This sea rise and change of all flora and fauna means intensive farming and settlement above 22°C north can do no damage to the existing landscape. As written in my last book 2007 we can create 100 towns with villages, each of around 250ks diameter across the north. Each of around 100,000 people, that is 10 million.

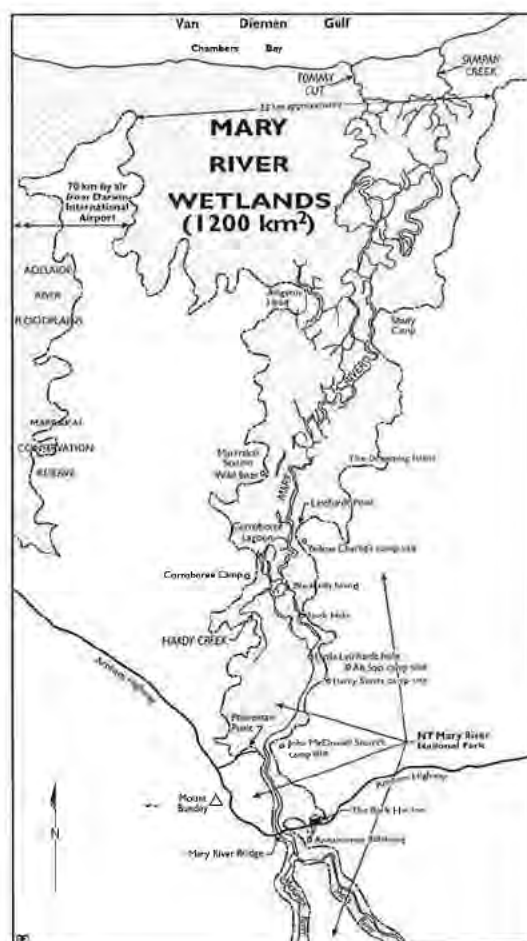

Under emergency powers resume all major holdings with a reasonable size circle retained by owners around their Centre of operation compensated for lost area. This compensated capital will allow owners to intensively develop their remaining area.

New settlers from UK across the north to US are all compatible proven, have the cash and expertise to make a new land and life. Bring own containers which can stand force 6 and 7 winds, providing no trees around, as housing full of furniture and machinery. Blocks of land housing business and farms supplied immediately at low minimal rental. Providing they stay 10 years and become an Australian citizen with one passport land is then granted free.

In return these northern nations turn Australia New Zealand into fort ANZAC complete with all modern equipment and staff to deter any potential takeover.

In addition with this incentive they retain together with South America and Africa total ownership of Antarctic using Aus. NZ as bases.

The first law of business is to turn a loss into profit. Let these Mary River barrages go to create a real live model of tomorrow and using this to build the WORLD ENVIROMENTAL EDUCATION and EXPO CENTRE.

Extract from Can Australia Survive Climate Change and The Power Shift from East to West - 02/2013

PROJECT FOUR ACTION

MAKING DARWIN A WORLD CLASS BUSINESS HUB

With the three previous projects clearly marketed, started and progressing, project four is a simple done deal knock-on knock-over.

The only cost is to be bold enough to sit down NOW and draw up an easily understood clear plan and map outlined herein.

Originally put to our wonderful mayor Katrina Fong Lim requesting City makeover ideas several years ago to which Katrina replied favourably.

Advertised around the world for a compatible progressively staged by investor who owns the lot (named "A" for Action) as Darwin will be the Adelaide City of the North. With ports, rail, education industry, plus huge backup of new towns, villages, and industries fast tracked by the drivers of the three previous projects throughout NNT.

Currently Darwin CBD is struggling to survive. A vibrant City must have a CBD that is the heart and life with vibrant energy that permanently dominates the City.

For a half a million to one million city extending inland the peninsular heart and brain centre must meet two demands or die.

STAGE 1&2 - CAR PARKING ACCESS AND EXIT

'A' would commence building a rock outward two lane causeway to maximum viable depth commencing at entrance to Deck Chair Theatre out from Esplanade cliffs to Doctor's Gully. Safe swimming adjacent to Deck Chair with screened vents for tidal access.

Commence demolishing all buildings and Smith Street including Council Chambers, Church and buildings up to Browns Mart and parking accommodation across Smith St near Court House. Old National Trust buildings on Esplanade Drive remain.

Relocate fuel line city side of Kitchener Drive, cut a slice off hill for a two lane fill haul road to land reclamation, war memorial to Doctor's Gully. This will be a fast two lane toll exit from this huge parking area. When time is right eventual two lane tunnel from Doctor's Gully to Casino Creek - widening road to Darwin High School, cut down this ridge for under and over bypass to Fannie Bay or Stuart Highway. Potential for an 'up only' tunnel single lane to Esplanade roundabout onto Daly Street.

This plan will give people time to digest our future and run with it as Stuart Park, Parap, Fannie Bay and Nightcliff will become prize hi-rise living to people servicing the CBD brain centre.

Commence removing fill from this huge site to in-fill rock sea wall to cliffs war memorial to Doctor's Gully, rock bolt sides as you go down, dropped through a shaft to bottom exit load out point. If insufficient fill, sand or mud pump balance from Harbour, cliff natural bush remains. This will give 'A' multi use buildings, entertainment and especially much more car parking along this entire length including old fuel tanks for shops use, with lifts to Esplanade all below viewing height from Esplanade Drive.

In addition somewhere along this strip to Doctor's Gully makes provision for a multiple terminal ferry access to lift congestion off wharf at Cullen Bay.

Investor 'A' commences building a series of 40-50 story above ground level towers above this underground car park for accommodation, offices and shopsetc. These towers will look both seaward and into the rebuilt Queens walk, park and sufficient access to underground parking. All pre-existing housing accommodation buildings, Smith Street and parking spaces will be returned free to existing owners with a reasonable maintenance rental within this project, can also be used as a cyclone shelter.

Cut down Daly Street, McMinn Street for under and over access two lane in and two lane out in McMinn Street with some out splitting at Daly Street following old rail line to Salonika. McMinn Street under Tiger Brennan Drive overpass to underground parking or along cliffs parking. All existing CBD in/out roads still exist.

Remember we are going to stop climate change and sea rise with project three.

STAGE 3 & 4 - Rapid Transit

Resume the old vacant rail station and land to port roundabout and tank farm. Plan for a fast light rail to service Humpty Doo, Bees Creek and Berry Springs, northern suburbs, eventually Batchelor, Adelaide River and any houses or industry to be removed and relocated or rebuilt elsewhere at 'A's' expense.

Plan for a two way people mover tunnel from rail station under Bennett Street with lifts to Wood, McMinn, Cavenagh, Smith and Mitchell Streets. A two lane tunnel in and out from Casino under Smith Street plus people mover to underground parking with lift access at suitable points.

Darwin CBD sub level rock is made for tunnels which are safe proven system today. Draw this simple plan/ map up, pass thousands around locally, nationally and internationally including the outline of those first three projects, rezone areas mentioned and standby for the rush to our world's new City and business hub.

Or sit on your butt and very soon life of our CBD will be bled off to already existing and growing vibrant radial towns and villages. Our CBD will soon die and become a squatters shanty town.

Darwin will always be a major Northern City of one million or more. Plan today for that tomorrow. No more stick on bandaids approach.

MAKE IT HAPPEN!

Hindsight

Hindsight is a little and often misused tool. Essential though, for success in most new projects or expeditions where people or whole societies enter into the unknown.

To look back at history using this tool; to consider what worked and what didn't – what caused physical and social disasters is important. Perhaps too, it can be helpful when just reminiscing with old friends about old places.

What should not be acceptable for society is to repeat, again and again, projects or experiments that have failed in the past, sometimes over and over again.

At any given time, people try to do the best they can under the circumstances of the day. The fact is, if one was not there at that time, in that place, under those circumstances, no objective judgement can be made later, from an armchair. There are, however, countless armchair experts on every subject, telling how this and that should be done. Taking their advice could lead to a crash landing.

This is how it was when we bought the Station. Near a billabong were two bush-built humpies; both with dirt floors – one for the 'white fellas' and one for the Aborigines. There was no power, water, refrigeration, reasonable road access and no airstrip. We were 'locked in' for six months or more by the Wet Season. Other than the odd horse or bullock paddock, there was no fencing from east to west of the Top End. We lived in true open-range cowboy country.

For the first three years we bathed and did our washing in the billabong, carrying water in drums for household needs. Fresh-killed meat lasts only one day so we had to brine and dry salt what we couldn't use immediately. Rice and flour had to be spread in the sun in order to kill the weevils that regularly contaminated them.

Cooking was done in a large open fireplace covered by a corrugated iron roof mounted on four forked sticks and surrounded on three sides by a sheet of iron placed horizontally at ground level. A huge urn, made from a piece of pipe with a tap fitted, was always on the boil ready for a cup of tea or 'Camp' coffee.

Before the advent of easier access and refrigeration, this is how rural and outback folk lived Australia wide.

Our first Aboriginal employees arrived on foot from a far off Station that had been recently purchased by southern interests who did not wish to employ them. They came complete with their old folk, a young girl and boy, two pigs and lots and lots of dogs. Later, two other groups walked in from similar change of management situations.

A first priority was building toilet facilities, known as 'flaming furies'. These were in use all over the Territory including in Darwin and Alice Springs. They consisted of a drum buried in the ground, with a chimney for ventilation. In the bush they were burnt out regularly, using sump oil or some other combustible material. As soon as time and money were available we built showers, toilets and a laundry and staff accommodation for everyone, before building our place.

In all, I spent the first 10 years on the Station with a mainly Aboriginal team, me usually being the only white person there. The workers were changed regularly, opting for short-term rotational employment. When recruiting a change-over team it was accepted practice that all relatives of whatever age or disability, some often needing carer attention, came along too. The ratio of workers to non- or part-time workers would vary from one to two up to one to five.

Where possible, anyone not employed, was given a paying job if they asked for one. For example, the ladies did the cooking and sweeping, this being the only housework necessary as all floors were dirt. With bush-made brooms they swept with so much vigour and enthusiasm that the ground around the buildings became lower than the surrounds.

We were reminded of our 'jobs for all' policy recently when out walking the dog in Nightcliff. An Aboriginal man stopped to greet us. 'Don't you remember me?' he asked. He then sang a song he used to sing as a boy as he stood on a four gallon drum helping to pack pet meat. He was paid for the two or three hours he worked before deciding to run off and play with the other children.

Before every Wet Season, the ladies demanded that enough fire wood be stored to last until The Dry. 'No wood, no tucker, Boss', they'd say. So with tractor and trailer all of us made what became an exciting expedition. We would pick up the dead-fall we had been mentally noting over past months. We never cut the wood but would pick up everything suitable to burn, including logs that would take four or five men to lift. The wood-heap grew to enormous size – like a mini-haystack. When a new log for the fire was needed all hands were on deck to fetch it. One end was put into the fire. The log was then pushed along into the flames with a crowbar as it burned. It could last several days, usually providing live coals for use in the mornings.

Today, in the Northern Territory, everyone seems to have the answers to Aboriginal issues. Back then, the only people who would have anything to do with them were missionaries, pastoralists and government agency officials. Face the facts Australians! Few bothered with the Aboriginal people. As Wards of the State they were:

*'Not on the list, didn't exist
Not on the roll, can't get the dole
No vote, don't rock the boat.'*

Aborigines were not permitted to drink alcohol as legislated in an ordinance as far back as 1910. This was amended in 1911 and 1936, clearly stating that a first offence for supplying liquor to them brought a mandatory fine of £20 or a three month gaol sentence. A second offence resulted in a £100 fine or 12 months gaol. There was six months mandatory gaol for fraternising with an Aboriginal woman unless a man proved his genuine intention to marry the lady – but could only do so with Government permission. The process of gaining this sometimes took two to three years.

For 57 years (1910-1967) we had mandatory sentencing in the Northern territory, aimed only and directly at 'white fellas'. Everyone here in the Territory clearly understood and accepted that these harsh laws were vital and necessary. To protect and cushion our Aboriginal race, including their customs and traditions, against rapid change.

The only 'Whingers' were those who broke these laws – as always, such endless litany by lawbreakers since time began.

The world works on trust and loyalty so, to be a success, the relationship on a Station must be one of total trust between the manager and his Aboriginal team, few of whom may be able to read or write. They make up a team of all ages and skills for which the manager is totally responsible – for their hopes and ills, 24 hours a day, and even when living elsewhere, the call for advice or assistance, made at any time, is still upon you.

Call this what you like, there are no other near neighbours and your entire mutual well being and prosperity is completely interdependent on each other in this 'black/white' relationship. Most Australians do not realise the tremendous contribution

Aborigines have made in all endeavours of development in the Northern Territory outback. In addition to paying them 'whiteman wages', twice a year, after the Wet and after the Dry Seasons' work, we always added a bonus. Everyone was 'shouted' new town clothes at 'the Stone House', Sue Wah Chin's store in Cavenagh Street with Ossie giving two and a half percent discount. Dresses, knickers and shoes were purchased for the women and girls, and shirts and trousers for the men, plus the bales of cloth they required for their ceremonies. I once took 16 Aboriginal men into Les Heaven's matchbox-size shoe shop, just around the corner from Chin's, in Knuckey Street. The lass behind the counter panicked and 'shot through' so Les himself came out to serve us. 'Les, fit everyone here with 'laughing sides' (RM elastic-sided boots)', I said. 'I'll pay, then we'll all have to go to Sun Cheong Loong's to buy everyone a fancy stockman's hat of their choice.'

With hindsight, people give fancy names to this era. Fact is, since those days have passed, Aborigines die younger, from a whole range of problems that did not exist three or four decades ago. On the other hand, we have all made gigantic steps forward together over the last few years. It is my belief that we, in the Northern Territory, are leading Australia in Indigenous Rights by 20 years or more. Northern Territory Aborigines are now Australian citizens and some of the world's largest landowners, having some 50% of the Territory, together with mining rights and offshore seas and islands.

the two indigenous Members in our Parliament. These numbers are sure to increase in the future.

We are looking forward to building 'a house' in which we can all live with mutual trust and respect, by way of our proposed new Constitution and Statehood. If we get this right, the Northern Territory will truly become great – a new-century front runner and leader in Australia.

The Matriarch's Covenant

Aboriginal people have great wisdom and can say in a few words, together with body language and finger talk, what we would take a whole chapter to say! Being very perceptive, they can 'sort you out' in minutes. Unlike 'white fellas' who come and go, Aborigine folk are here to stay on 'their country'. In addition, they are the world's best negotiators; something State and Federal Governments are just beginning to realise.

I will never forget when, about 35 years ago – in the mid 60s, a wonderful old Aboriginal woman, then in her late 70s, handed down 'The Covenant' for our future Northern Territory.

She was a matriarch, slim and well spoken, with great dignity, who bore the badges of her office, a hole through her nose and other initiation body markings, clearly displayed. Her parents would have witnessed the first comings of the white man and her grandparents would date back to pre-white man.

In simple, well-enunciated words, this lady gave us a foundation block for a black/white Territory, set securely in concrete, that no politician or lawyer, hell-bent on glory hunting, could ever bastardise.

Around the fireplace during breakfast, one day, she said, first putting up one index finger then placing the other alongside and making a swooping motion, 'black fellas and white fellas must go together'.

Then, without parting her hands, rolling them downwards toward herself and coming back with both of them clasped tightly palm to palm, and shaking them up and down twice, she said, 'We must be one people, one country, or ...' then, separating her hands and closing them into opposing fists, she bumped them together twice and continued, 'there will be big trouble'. Next, wiping her two palms together twice, she turned them, and facing me, said, 'We will all be finished'. She repeated this wiping movement twice more, turning her palms outward and then spreading her arms slowly wide, left and right, before saying, 'We will all be finished for all time'.

The 'Canbra Man'

With any group of Aborigines there is always a joker or two as they have a fantastic sense of humour, turning the ordinary into rib-breaking comedy. Their sense of story-telling and theatre is a natural ability with a large portion of corroboree being theatre – often a pun upon some happening. They have the ability to enhance a story through dance by pausing to create greater interest and then, with a straight face, bring down the punch line, resulting in howls of mirth. They can use an inflection to alter the meaning of a word, unknown to most onlookers who will totally miss the innuendo.

For instance, in our area, the use by Aboriginal people of the terms 'white fella' and 'black fella' is normal and acceptable. String out either word on a long drawn out downward cadence on the noun, that is, 'fella... ah... ah... ah... ah', and it becomes highly derogatory towards the person at whom it is aimed.

Way back when there were no roads out there in the buffalo country and the NT was governed by Canberra we had a visit from one of their 'high ups' in Aboriginal Affairs. He was a very genuine bloke who stayed the night and talked with the team that afternoon and next morning, then went on his way. He was very efficient and polite although he never did say what he was on about. The fact that he even found us in the bush was no mean feat as there were no signposts along the way.

Capture in your mind the magic of the team, as they often corroboreed at night around a fire. Listen to the click sticks in perfect timing and coordination, all in rhythm, stopping and starting together in unison without a conductor – Te Tok - Te Tok Tok Te Tok Tok Tok, sometimes followed by someone thumping a finale on a swag or pillow – Whump... pause... Whump whump whump.

One night, shortly after this man from Canberra had left, there was a great corroboree as everyone gave their own version of his visit, each followed by roars of laughter and much rolling around on the ground. When I asked what all the fun was about they told me this story. 'You know this Canbra man who come and talk for two days about this and that and all sorts of things with us? Well, we make a corroboree about it all, tell everyone 'what he talk about. Next time we do this one we will let you know so that you can come up and listen and watch.' We never attended a corroboree without an invitation.

Men and women, are all natural dancers, starting as very young boys and girls to learn a great range of body language movements and songs.

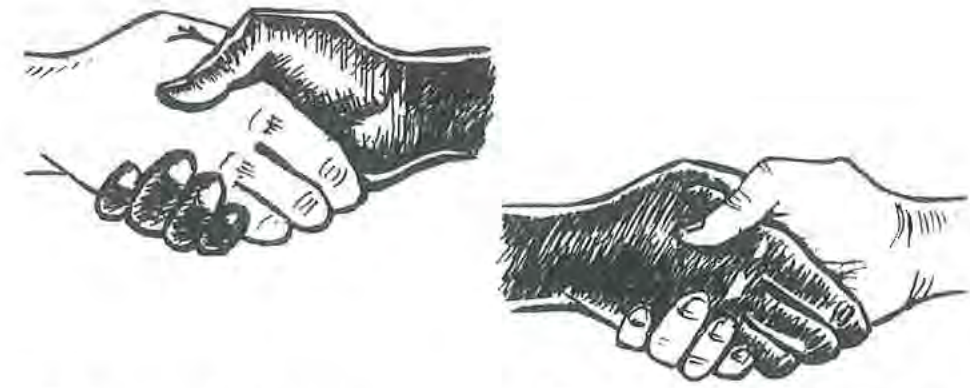

We have had dancers on Annaburroo who have represented Australia on overseas dance tours. The night I was invited to watch, they performed a few preliminary songs and dances then 'Big Paddy' put on 'The Canbra Man' corroboree. In the beginning he told the story in their own language of how this man arrived from a place way down there called Canbra, and he talked and talked about all sorts of things for 'black fellas' and 'white fellas'. Finally, came the last part sung in English as Paddy danced, turning to everyone as he did so, 'This fellah ...ah ...ah ...ah,' putting one hand in a dismissive limp wrist movement, '...him all talkabout... him all talkabout... (pause), fellah... ah... ah... ah... ah.' Whilst singing this line, Paddy put his hand alongside his mouth and rapidly opened and shut his thumb and fingers, making a 'motor mouth'. Again, using his hand in the same way, he sang the last line,

'Him say... BUGGA ALL! ... (pause) ... Fellah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah... ah.' Then he yelled, 'Hey!' and spread his arms, and that was it. Needless to say we all laughed until the tears rolled down our cheeks.

Our 'Canbra Man' would have returned home to the ACT and told of his great treks and adventures and of 'getting the message across' to the Aboriginal people. He would have reported a highly successful operation and been admired by all 'down there'. Such expeditions usually resulted in a rise up the corporate ladder in recognition of services rendered regardless of great hazards and privation.

This story illustrates the total failure of Canberra down through the decades and the lack of vision and understanding about how to relate to Aboriginal people and their issues.

Looking at photos of days gone by, commencing with early settlement, you will see one, two or three white men alongside

Challenge for 2000

In this Top End world of the new century and beyond that we now live in, the future possibilities are fascinating, exciting and beyond imagination of what we can achieve, if we get it right. We are the gateway to Australia; we can contribute to the future – a land still largely untouched environmentally, with huge untapped potential and an almost guaranteed rainfall. We have a clean palette on which to paint our future.

Two things we seem to have lost in the recent decade that need to be addressed are reality and money values. Reality – the need to spell out the challenges we face in simple terms. Instead we have made self delusion into an art form by 'politically correct speak'. Everyone wants, needs, demands ever more resources. All resources come down to one item. Money. Money is created by effort or sweat, somewhere by someone. Instead we have created a cargo cult belief that those who yell loud enough can make those resources fall out of the sky in great abundance. We have the wrong bottom line, money instead of the environment being the wealth of our 'World Farm'. You will soon live to see the philosophy of 'economic rationalism' proven to be one of the more crazy experiments undertaken by mankind.

Worse yet, almost all Territorians have lost the understanding of the reality of our future. We, black and white, white and black, indigenous and non-indigenous, are locked together 'in step' 'for better or for worse', in a permanent marriage with no divorce option. Increasingly we are drifting apart, head-to-head in many respects; two groups of people with the potential to destroy this wonderful Territory and so destroy ourselves. This was sensed by the Matriarch, back in the mid 60s, when she said to me: "You know, when I was a young girl, blackfellas and whitefellas were like that," as she clasped both hands together, palm to palm and shook them up and down. "Now we are like this," she said as her two closed fists were bumped together vigorously. "What's wrong?" she said. "Don't know," I replied being, young and innocent in the ways of life. "Well young fella, you find out what's wrong and fix it up. Promise me". "Promise," I said. 1965

I have since found out what is wrong. It is the three 'P's coming into play. Something that rules all living things in some way or another, particularly people – Power, Politics and Profit.

To help keep this promise to the Matriarch and her people we have had approved and set aside 40 hectares of our land on the Arnhem Highway for a 'Buffalo Hall of Fame' in the Mary River buffalo country to show the Top End history from pre-whiteman through to today, emphasising the introduction by the first settlers of buffalo and including the enormous contribution and effort by our indigenous people as we both moved forward together. The giant steps we have all taken and the great future we have holding hands together as we enter this new century.

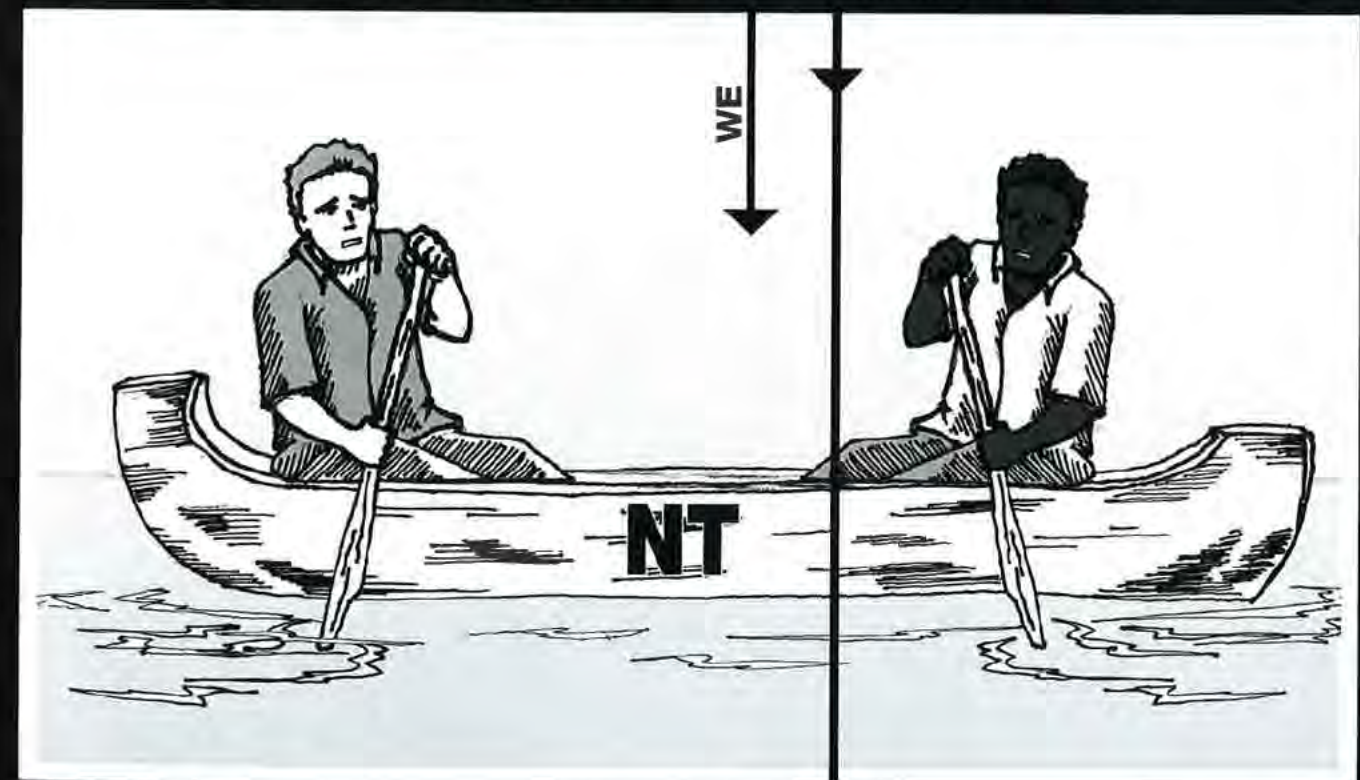

It is essential for the reconciliation process that this Black/White history be written and displayed for all Territorians, Australians and the World. The Territory is the world's front runner in indigenous rights and we will devote our time and profit from this book to this project:

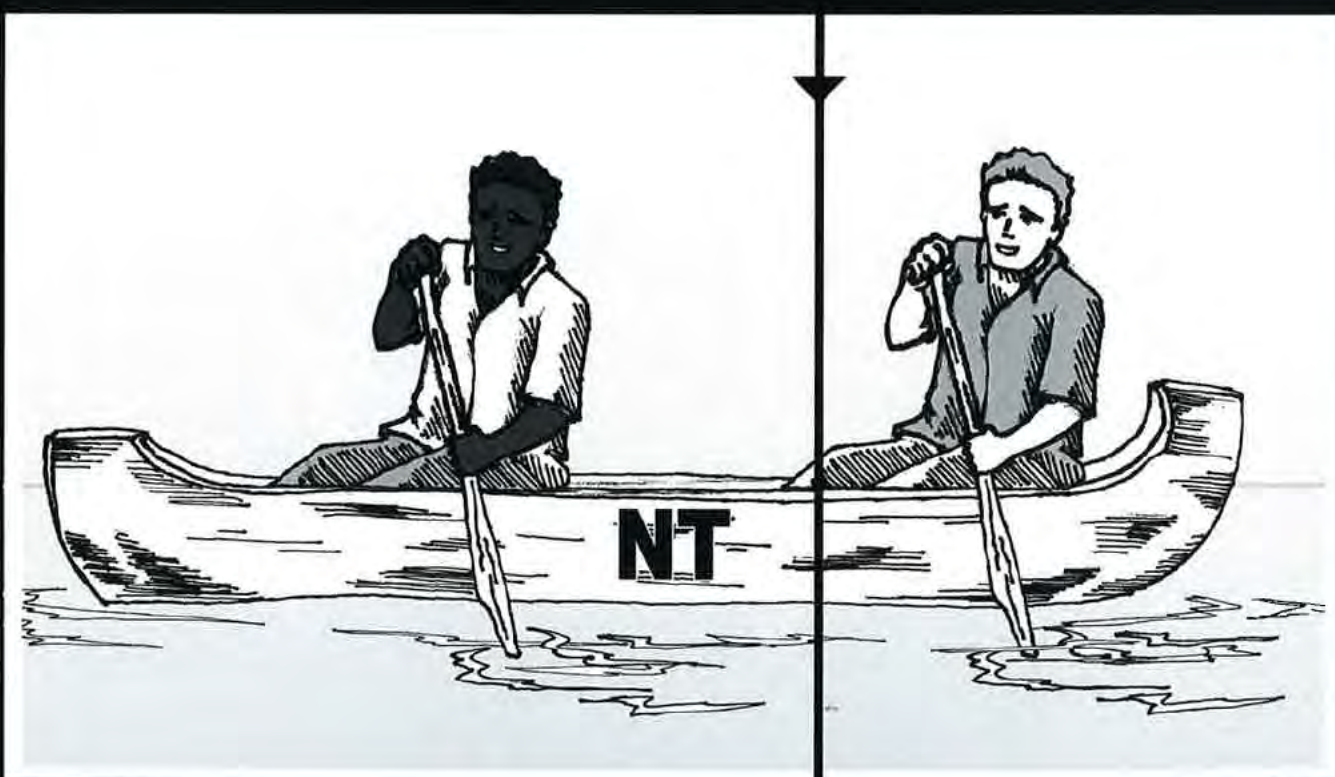

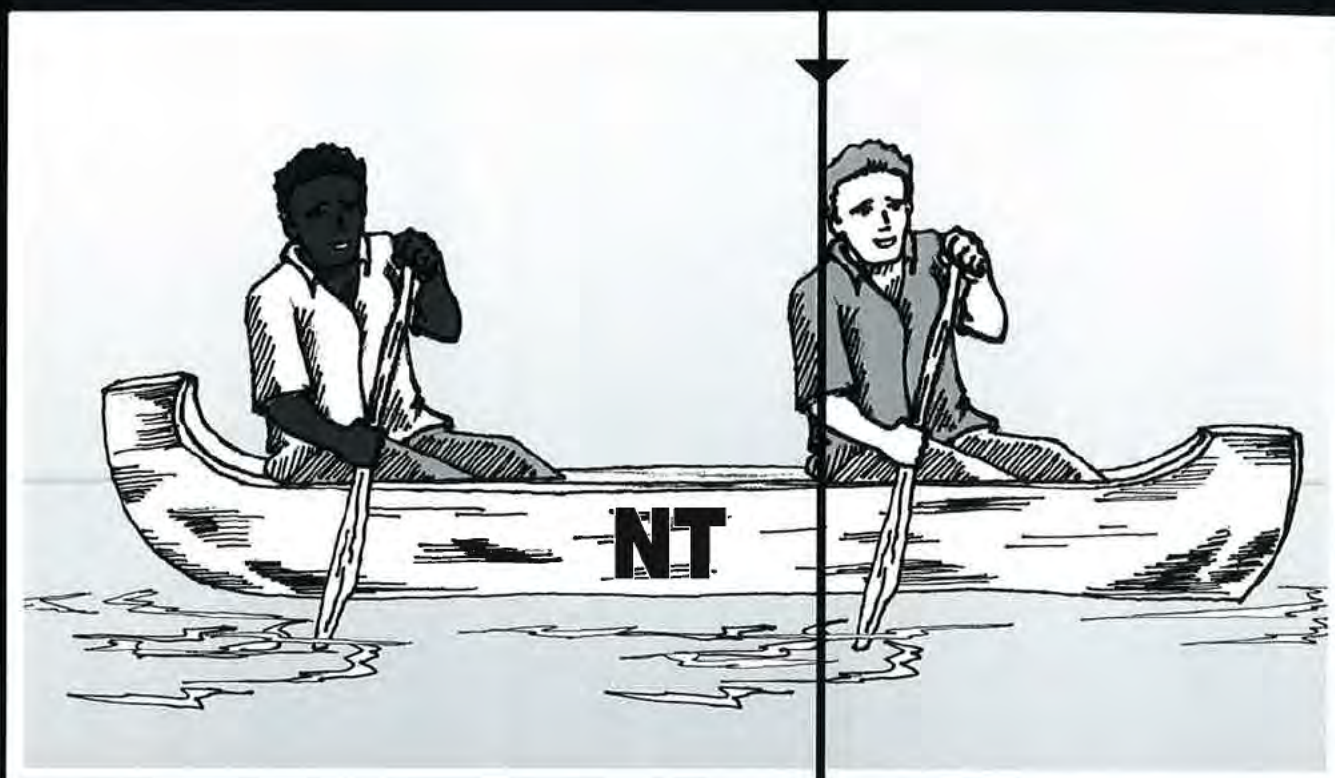

'THE BUFFALO HALL OF FAME' & 'THE INDIGENOUS BUSINESS COLLEGE'

THE MATRIARCH'S COVENANT 1985

Black fellas and white fellas must go together.
We must be one people, one country, or... there will be big trouble.
We will all be finished. We will all be finished for all time.

Business Together

THE

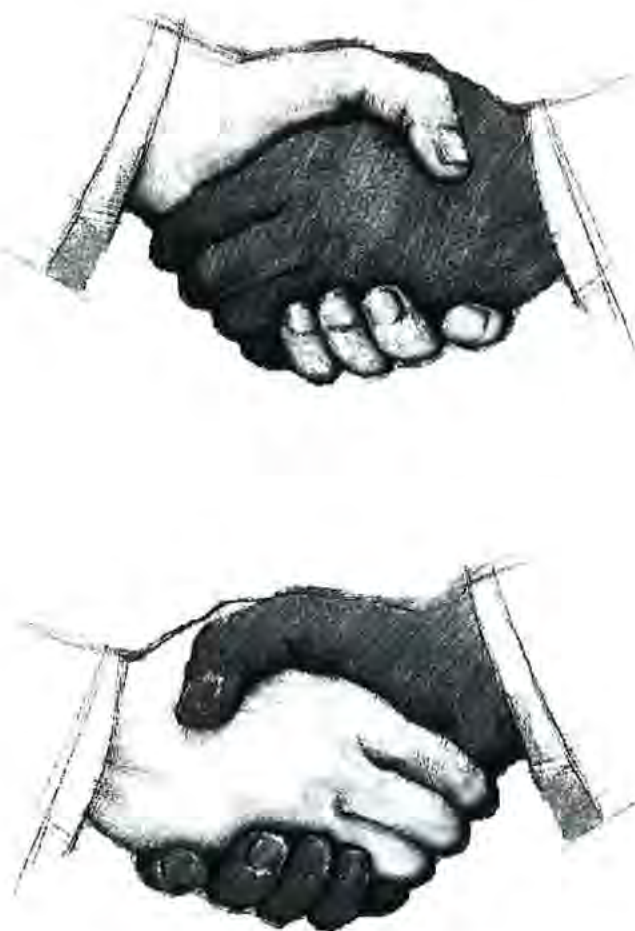

MATRIARCH'S
COVENANT

WE MUST

GET HERE

NT
ONE PEOPLE
ONE COUNTRY

NT THE WAY FORWARD

CHALLENGE 2000

In my generation a handshake and promise is set in stone for ever and ever until totally discharged. From that day in 1965 when that wonderful old lady placed this covenant upon me, 52 years ago, I have been knocking on doors.

From the top of the Federal tree and NT, up and down again and again including recently, PM Tony Abbott, who gave himself the Title of Minister of Aboriginal Development or some such grand name. Another Canberra fix-it man with zero understanding of the past, present or future demands needed to weld our black/white Indigenous/non-Indigenous nation together as one.

Just another failed Canberra dreamboat piled upon failed projects. Zero understand by all parties that over those 50 years they have destroyed a wonderful talented people via the fortnightly hand out cheque. I was there

Work makes you who you are, gives you self worth, pride, dignity, wealth and equality within your community. You belong.

No work, you are nothing, you don't belong anywhere, totally dependant upon the community at large for all your life support needs. Regardless of creed or colour despised by the giver and deeply resented by the receiver.

The hate throughout Australia today between us both is huge and growing exponentially. Directly the result of Canberra's failure to have any understanding whatsoever of these challenges we face.

We are all sitting on a nuclear bomb that if not quickly defused will destroy us both and our country. Any words in our constitution or treaty will only widen this hate and that guilt between us.

Words do nothing for the people on the ground can be twisted into 50 different meanings by lawyers.

Work action developing their own lands with joint Australian partners is the only solution. Learning on the job.

Today Indigenous people own 64% of NT and control all new development across the whole of Australia, and are being used at every level by devious groups and organisations for their own gain whatever that might be. Certainly not for Indigenous landowners interests.

Few understand the true pre 1967 foundation of working relationships between indigenous employees and white fella employers on outback stations.

A truly rare unique relationship unlike anything anywhere existing in the old world of yesterday or the new world of today. Based totally upon mutual trust, loyalty and respect, each dependant upon the other for all their worldly needs - wealth, health, food, education, housing, the lot. Everyone trying to scratch a living after a violent war.

Wards of the State requiring a permit for employment regularly checked up by patrol officers, zero support from the State.

Around every employee is a family from xprenant women to the old and disabled all living a long full life into 60's, 70's and 80's.

179 years too late Canberra, as usual with the stroke of a pen passed a new law in 1967 making these wonderful talented people Australian Citizens.

As usual with zero understanding or any previous homework done upon the KNOCK-ON EFFECT. Our dumb Canberra management again as usual with zero life experience or intelligence of basic fundamentals of life threw these wonderful people into a new life and world.

Like a stone thrown into water creates ripples that travel to the ends of the earth and wash away everything unable to adapt to those impacts.

Hurled into a fire storm of change that consumed all. An atrocity, drunk for two days on the fortnightly cheque, starvation for 12 days, degradation death in all its forms facing them everyday is why we are where we are today.

Huge camps on esplanade cliffs, Darwin Hotel same in coffee bushes around NT News site today Don Hotel, behind Parap Hotel in the bush and a bottle shop with a plank bar outside near Berrimah lights.

Visiting all these sites in an attempt to get your old team out to work was mind blowing. People you had worked with for years shoulder to shoulder turned into help-less hopeless beggars overnight, and when you did get some you had to rest and feed them for a month or two or more before they were able to work so body wasted they were.

Those in the Dt's had to be kept out separate and well away from the others who refused to have them near as talking to the spirits.

Around 1971 I rang NT Native Affairs, (we were governed by Canberra then) and suggested you need to educate parents, schooling is compulsory and get someone to pick up the kids and take them to school.

Now I am a 101% public service fan as they are the machinery that runs the country. Unfortunately probably struck a new member to the NT with no background experience who said - "It's all fixed and funded". Meaning citizenship and the fortnightly cheque. As a pastoralist I was the bad guy and given the brush off.

December 2015 or 2016 Canberra gave 30 million dollars for truant officers to pick up the kids for school. That's 44 years and two generations later is how fast Canberra moves. Reactive never ever proactive.

All that was ever needed several years prior to and after 1967 was education, education, education on how to handle this new life and world they were thrown into.

The latest divisive demand by the NT Northern Land Council for the return of all NT leasehold cattle stations to Traditional Owners leased back to original owners with conditions.

Will grow the existing roughly 64% Indigenous ownership of the NT to some 90% land ownership, will eventually destroy the NT Cattle Industry as its foundation and real basic asset rests upon that private Government leasehold ownership of land for success.

The private ownership of the land your house, business, cattle stations sits upon is the fundamental structural system upon which the entire fabric of today's Australia society rests upon.

Change that rock solid foundation then our entire foundation and economic system as we know it today collapses.

In addition the existing serious hate between black and white indigenous and non-indigenous will ramp up into explosive point, out of control Nation wide.

Today NT Indigenous people are all millionaires in land assets. Tomorrow if this claim is passed we will not only destroy each other, we will destroy our country Australia.

Add the pitiful cashless card which certainly cuts back some temporary forms of mind block to deaden the future-less welfare dependence in remote and urban indigenous communities as well as non-indigenous people.

Zero understanding by Canberra, their 1967 fortnightly cheque condemned them into this world of hell. This will not change for all indigenous and non-indigenous people locked into this mind numbing world unless real work on a vast Australian scale is quickly implemented such as I have outlined in these four projects.

Again the ever widening gap between the 'haves' and the 'have nots' rapidly continues to grow which only ends in violent revolution.

To face the six horsemen of the Climate Change Apocalypse now galloping hard down upon the western world, particularly Australia demands we must be one united people to have the remotest chance of our economic and physical survival. As simply and clearly laid out by the Matriarch in her 1965 covenant for Australia's future.

As written in our station book 'The Last Roundup' 1999 - 17 years ago.

"Social service handouts trapped them into a permanent state of dependence on a vicious fortnightly merry-go-round. The cheque would be drunk in a couple of days with nothing over for food or other things for the next 12 days. The outcome - Starvation! Unbelievable malnutrition, degradation fighting vehicle roll-overs. Death in all its forms stared them in the face every day, with no apparent way out. To see the door closing on each member of their family and clan is to see no future for themselves.

Today bored, senseless with nothing to do all day, locked into this world for ever. To break that mind numbing monotony use all means available, alcohol, drugs and suicide. Have some fun at the givers expense - steal a car, break and enter, take it don't make it yourself - rest up in a stable world of jail for a while to break from that no future world of mind destroying monotony.

All societies have only two assets, their people and their land. Land is a society's bank account supplying all its needs and wealth. Divide either or both inequitably then that society ultimately implodes, driven by the basic raw fundamentals of human nature.

From greed that multiplies exponentially feeding upon itself until the ravenous hunger for even more power and riches consumes the structure that supports it. Should a minority group get control of a societies land the result will eventually be an internal revolution in some form. There is no exception to this. Read history!"

After 50 years of incompetent Federal leadership that has destroyed a wonderful talented people, their only solution is the cashless card condemning them for ever to live in this no future world. No change, just another day in hell, piled upon 50 years of other days in the welfare state. For 50 years I have been banging on leaders doors with zero result just emphasises the incompetence of our obsolete management system.

I say to all Australians, all of us and our country is on the edge of economic and physical collapse driven by the forces in our world for a pie in the sky one world socialist state. Incompetent Government, every party.

There is only one viable solution, sack our managers now today and put in a slim line fix-it administrative team, or die painfully. If in doubt look at Russia, Mao, North Korea, Cuba, Africa and today's modern socialist welfare system collapse and anarchy wealthy Venezuela.

There is only one exception to these examples of collapse both economically, business and in food production.

China. In 1978 President Deng Xiaping said to his broken Nation, "Get off your arse and run our country as a business there is no more room for people or food, we need space. Only one child per family, bide your time, hide your capability".

Now 39 years later China rules the world economically and physically. A fantastic people and culture. There is only one word needed to fix up Australia. Leadership, and there is none. Base your model upon Singapore and how one man made it what it is today. So Australian people get off your arse now and run our country as a business, dumping all dream world ideologies or soon cease to exist.

Look at Switzerland, a highly respected Nation, a safe place to keep your money and go between of Nations at war, never invaded for ages. Why? Because every Swiss is a highly trained person ready for instant war dedicated to their survival, making the price of invasion so high in blood and treasure to be left alone.

The basis for our new Australia rests upon taking the best parts of management from Switzerland and Singapore.

It only takes one man or one woman to make a Nation great or destroy it. Singapore's Lee Kuan Yew the world's greatest modern statesman took a war torn diverse people, welded them together via compulsory National Service like the Swiss and created a proud dynamic people and World Business Hub. Visit both, talk with their people, come back to Australia get your pots and pans out and clean out all our brain dead in our Canberra White House. You cannot run our biggest business on ideology, install a new team by logic and common sense or die.

STATE OF PLAY IN AUSTRALIA TODAY

Cashless welfare card to be expanded

A FEDERAL government trial of cashless debit cards for welfare recipients in remote communities is being hailed as a success as the government expands the sites to the West Australian Goldfields.

Human Services Minister Alan Tudge is due to release a report on the trials in WA's Kimberley and Ceduna in South Australia on Friday. The report comes as Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull is also set to announce an expansion of the trial to the WA Goldfields during a visit to Kalbarrie. "The status quo is not working," he told The West Australian.

"I will not stand by and watch this happen. We must do more, we must try innovative and different approaches and the cashless debit card has proven very successful so far."

Mr Tudge says the government will roll out the next trial around Kalbarrie because there is a demonstrable need in the community, particularly given the harm caused by drugs. "And secondly because there's community leadership support here for it," he told the ABC. But Greens community spokeswoman Rachel Siewert is disappointed about the expected announcement.

NTNEWS2014A - V2

NT News 2/9/17

Taking aim at vandals

ALICE Springs Town Council is encouraging residents to "report a vandal", reminding locals of the $1500 reward for information that leads to a conviction.

Chief executive Rex Mooney said the incentive was introduced in November 2004. "With council spending approximately $3000 each week mending graffiti and wanton vandalism, this is a needless pressure on the public purse. Worst of all, it's preventable," he said.

Reports can be made by emailing astc.nt.gov.au, calling 8950 0500, or through Council's website.

Darwin last 6 months firms business fleet, 40% broken into, 10% stolen, average of six per week or 2000 per year. Townsville several months ago, talking to an old friend - 24 cars stolen last weekend which is same situation Australia wide. Walk your streets, high fences, locked gates, security lights and cameras, both private and public. People are frightened across our land, our Nation is lawless and our law is 100 years obsolete.

How did this happen?

Long ago a guy said, 'Give me your child for its first 5-7 years and I will turn it into anything. The greatest in any field or a monster.'

Recall Hitler's ruthless youth brigades. Lenin implemented a new socialist education system in Russia for the 1921 new workers paradise womb to tomb.

Later along came Stalin who was shocked at what he found and Stalin was a shock proof man.

This process was so effective the children became uncontrollable, unsuited to any family or community responsible life. They became roving predatory bands, no belief in God, family or community ethics or morality. Stalin arrested hundreds of thousands of teachers and students sending them to Siberia never to be seen again.

Very simple. Our Nation has been deliberately dumbed down via our education system just like Russia over the last 5-7 decades, from once among the top to today's middle in the best world 50 education systems.

Simply be removing the rights of parents to educate their child upon the code of ethics of what is right and what is a no no wrong in social law on which a whole society's well being rests.

By removing the rights of parents to say NO to their children, plus all through our education system. Child care, pre kindy, kindy, primary school no carer or teacher is allowed to say NO to the child.

Result over decades their world has no restraints, no no-go boundaries, no respect for anybody or anything a normal upside down world to reality is their judgemental base. Where south is north west is east and down is up. Consequently there are tens of thousands of children and young adults lawless in that pipeline to our Australia's Don Dale and jail. The cost to taxpayers and victims is beyond measure in the destruction of a society's code of ethics, in blood, treasure and death is beyond measurement.

This is why our Darwin Don Dale Royal Commission into child delinquency is only dealing with the end result, not the cause, and so will fix nothing.

Democracy is Dead

In 1887 Alexander Tyler, a Scottish history professor at the University of Edinburgh, had this to say about the fall of the Athenian Republic some 2,000 years prior:

"A democracy is always temporary in nature; it simply cannot exist as a permanent form of government. A democracy will continue to exist up until the time that voters discover that they can vote themselves generous gifts from the public treasury. From that moment on, the majority always votes for the candidates who promise the most benefits from the public treasury, with the result that every democracy will finally collapse over loose fiscal policy, (which is) always followed by a dictatorship."

"The average age of the world's greatest civilizations from the beginning of history, has been about 200 years. During those 200 years, these nations always progressed through the following sequence:

From bondage to spiritual faith;
From spiritual faith to great courage;
From courage to liberty;
From liberty to abundance;
From abundance to complacency;
From complacency to apathy;
From apathy to dependence;
From dependence back into bondage."
The Obituary follows: ←

Professor Neil Fergusson said the same via ABC Big Ideas.

"The last Stage of democracy is rule by the mob. That is, break down of law and order, voting only for who will give us the most money."

This is where Australia is at now

Extract from Can Australia Survive Climate Change and The Power Shift from East to West - 02/2013

16. AUSTRALIA'S NEW MANAGEMENT

Democracy is DEAD - When a Business goes bankrupt through mismanagement you put in this Administrative Fix-it Team.

Our NT News Spells Out Reality
NT News Saturday January 26 2013

Nigel Adams analyses Labor's mishandling of a minor problem.

"POLITICS is all about gaining - and then retaining - power. This two-pronged ambition is made easy by following a simple principle. If there are more votes to be lost than gained by doing something that doesn't need to be done, then don't do it.

Prime Minister Julia Gillard fails to understand this.

Getting rid of a second rate, pro-Rudd senator such as Trish Crossin wasn't worth alienating rank-and-file Labor members in the Territory. She has deprived them of the right to vote for the Senate candidate of their choice and perpetuated the public perception of the ALP as a party run by hard-faced hatchet men in Canberra etc."

Democracy is DEAD, prisoner of minority groups. Corruption of preference votes used to blackmail individual politicians or whole parties, if they don't do what power groups want.

Rigid 1901 Federation party rules leave no room for original, productive thinking or action, break these rules you are excommunicated, your credibility destroyed by all parties.

The massive sale of our future, our wealth creation capacity, our land water and energy is bankrupted by a falsely created high dollar. You can hear the doors of industry, farming and business closing; our House Australia is shutting down. On face value you would have to say this is a deliberate sell out ready for takeover, to be slaves in our own land.

Do you take some inexperienced incompetent person off the street to build your house? Well that is exactly what we have done with our House Australia in which we all live. Be terrified of the results of our managers in Canberra, these are our employees, we pay their wages and perks, our biscuit tin is bare.

Without stepping through the door from old obsolete world into our new exciting world we will soon die and our passing will be painful.

Australia has eight state and Territory Governments plus Federal makes nine. A line from Sydney to Adelaide has run Australia since day one due to population and has little understanding of the rest of Australia.

The majority of Australians live in cities and towns leaving the bush folk, or outback Australia with 99.9% of our land who are powerless under our present management system. Result, our only asset, land, is managed by voters and Governments that have very little or no experience in land management. This imbalance must change for our survival.

There is no way we will abandon our states or right to vote in management so let's leave that as is. What I really want everyone to do is sit down quietly and seriously study our management situation. The people we vote in have complete control of your life, money, hopes and aspirations, your entire future.

Today we are told whopper lies, vital information is withheld, such as who is our borrowing Banker, what is the interest and payback conditions, these matters all very secretive. Spend your money on vote catching projects instead of urgent issues and sell us out via an unworkable minority government. All to hold onto power at any price, this governs all our political thinking all of the time 24/7. All run on ideologies and systems, all this must stop if we are to survive.

Double fasten harness, seat belts and helmet. If you disagree with the following take a month to invent better and that is three weeks too long as time has run out.

Only one government is needed with only one vote each, no preference votes. States and Territories run by non-political local Governments, retain Governors if you wish. Ideologists and unionists have run Australia since Federation had their say and day so ineligible to stand for election. One third of those elected must be farmers who understand the harsh laws of nature and land management, all candidates must have proven successful management skills.

From each State and Territory choose very carefully your candidates and vote in six for each one that is 48 in total. By public witnessed lottery select 16 to run our nation who select their own leader. The remaining 32 selected. By public lottery are divided in teams of two as apprentices and gofers to each minister, Also lottery selected.

Extract from Can Australia Survive Climate Change and The Power Shift from East to West - 02/2013

China has a core management team of 7 for ten years, probably too long for this fast changing world with time for corruption. Let's stick with three years or 39 four week blocks divided by your 16 ministers is nearly eight and a half weeks apprentice rotation, lottery selected.

At the end of 3 years all 16 ministers names go into a box and lottery draw eight for retirement replaced by lottery drawn apprentices. This gives ministers a six year term> Leaders replaced by a 60% majority vote of your 16 ministers as there could be falling out shakeups

Ministers paid 3 million dollars per year, apprentices one million all tax exempt no perks upon retirement.

Signed contract to publicly zip their lip on interfering and confusing Aus politics upon retirement as all our leaders do today

See how it works then after the first 3 year changeover work out your voting replacement numbers.

All of us must wear the pain to receive the gain.

When you have voted in this 16 new management team, go to Canberra and kick out all members, ditto States and Territories. Install your new team; hang on tight for the ride to the top of the world.

HIGH UNEMPLOYMENT IS THE MOTHER OF REVOLUTION

Our coming Made in Australia economic collapse is of a magnitude beyond measurement that will sweep away all our obsolete political management systems.

18/09/2014

STOP PRESS 06/03/2013

Beating the printer

With Julia and Tony spending enormous time in Western Sydney proves this spot runs Australia, that democracy is dead.

It's my guestamate Julia 'In the interests of the party' could step aside and pass the baton to a new leader. To become a hero, clean and free to walk the world stage and do wondrous deeds.

This giant poisoned Chalice will destroy totally within the next term of Federal office whoever wins our next election.

The unfunded Gonski and National Disability legislation using children and disabled to destroy the opposition for control of power is 101% evil.

Leaving us in chaos with no credible management. A magnificent strategy and coup by annihilation of all effective leadership, turning us all into a directionless rumbling rabble.

Extract from Can Australia Survive Climate Change and The Power Shift from East to West - 02/2013

Going Up or

Coming Down
YOUR CHOICE

THE TAX PAYER

50 years of gross
Federal mismanagement - bankrupt
In our land of plenty

ITS TIME

TO HEAT
UP
AUSTRALIA
AND GET SOME
GENUINE
LIFT OFF.

Throughout history major unstoppable explosions occur created by decades of deep down resentment by the people toward bad management, suddenly bursting to the surface.

Like a volcano this phenomenon is now world wide, rapidly engulfing Nations of all stripes, soon all Africa and Western world.

The trigger for Australia will be the collapse of the Australian Dollar bubble to 60, perhaps 40 cents finally to trash when the truth of our real economy is exposed. Certainly this boosts exports yet our imports of almost everything will rise in the same proportion. It is not possible to turn a switch and instantly produce these same price majority imports ourselves and therein is the point of explosion and implosion.

Historical evidence proves such social explosions have only two outcomes: the re-birth or painful death of that society and culture.

Feel our national deep down sense of desperation driven by decades of wasted time, words and achievements discussing mainly moral and social issues, proven normal by historians in the dying days of all great cultures. Capped by 12 years of unnecessary un-winnable war at great cost in blood and treasure winning only hate from those we attacked.

We are proven incapable of producing wealth or the necessities of life every day by the labels on most products we buy. We are bankrupt by mismanagement in our land of plenty by them selling our only source of wealth creation, our land, water and energy thus placing in the minds of all Australians that we are seriously at risk of physical survival.

It's all about survival of your tribe. If leadership fails to supply the essential ingredient then the people eventually sweep away all systems implementing new ones through violent volcanic change, as in Russia 1917, in France the guillotine, UK the axe to Charles 1st and all the people in their castles. This is what Australia is facing today.

That is why we desperately need a volunteer National Guard of one million plus real Stakeholder Patriot ratepayers with only one passport, Australian to maintain essential law and order.

In panic our Government would call out the Army Reserve and Army, in my estimate the result could be a Russian repeat. The reason being the accumulated resentment is so huge and deep across the board it would create and atomic explosion by all.

This rage will first be directed at Government especially Federal and secondly ethnic, specifically illegal migrants over last 10 to 20 years.

Finally, too late when Australians realise the depth of the sell out to China, this rage will engulf those Judas sellers of our Nation.

We have ignored the wisdom of the Ancients - 'In peace prepare for war', result, defenceless, nowhere to run to, nowhere to hide.

It is simple, we face do or die challenges.

Terry 2013

Aboriginal buffalo hunters shaving with a cut-throat razor at Alligator Heads, Marrakai. Note the variety of initiation marking, nose bones, armbands and amulets
[PH 0055/0055 Ted Ryko, Darwin 1988 Collection, NT Library]

Extract from 'The Last Roundup' - 1999

As it used to be. Note the pride, dignity and physical well being of these Top End warriors, c 1914.
[PH 0055/0053 Ted Ryko, Darwin 1988 Collection, NT Library]

Extract from 'The Last Roundup' - 1999

Extract from Australia 2000 - 1985

THE AUS' THAT WAS

Son that's the last of the WasAus tribe.
You must confess he looks a mess.
It was deep, deep in the ground
All ossified and mossified,
Is where we found the Aus' that was.

And down through the ages
The argument still rages
Was it beer or bullshit
Or the great big illusion
He held in that extrusion
The secret of his success
Of getting paid much, much more
For doing much, much less.
There are some profess
It was even less than less

Extract from Australia 2000 - 1985